McGovern Tosses Third Hat Into Demos' Ring

SEN. GEORGE S. McGOVERN
In Kennedy footsteps?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota declared his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination today, committing himself to "the goals for which Robert Kennedy gave his life."

McGovern, 46, said those goals were "an end to the war in Vietnam and a passionate commitment to heal the divisions in our own society."

McGovern's move turned the contest for the Democratic nomination into a three-way race. Vice President Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota are also candidates.

McGovern asserted that "I make no claim to wear the Kennedy mantle." But his declaration was seen as a move to attract those who supported Robert Kennedy for the nomination.

Kennedy forces have not, for the most part, rallied behind another candidate since the senator's murder June 6.

In a formal statement declaring his candidacy, McGovern made frequent references to the Kennedy family.

PRAISES KENNEDY

Terming Robert Kennedy "the most talented and passionate political leader of this generation," McGovern said he would have been nominated, elected and become "one of our truly great presidents.

"But that is not to be," McGovern said. "Nor is there anyone else to play his role in American political life."

The senator said he had not sought the endorsement of Kennedy's widow, Ethel, or his brother, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass.

The Kennedys, McGovern said, "are entitled to a moment away from the political pressures of 1968, and I would not anticipate anything other than their quiet understanding of what it is I seek to do."

RAPS NIXON

McGovern pledged active support to either Humphrey or McCarthy if one of them is nominated, "not only for their own considerable merit but because there is nothing in Mr. Nixon's past record to indicate that he is

Nixon, Agnew Pay LBJ Ranch A Visit

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Richard M. Nixon flew into Texas today and met with President Johnson at the LBJ Ranch.

Accompanying the candidate was his vice presidential running mate, Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, joining him for a briefing on the Vietnam war.

Wives of the two top Republicans and other members of their families also came in on the jet from Miami Beach where Nixon and Agnew were nominated by the GOP convention. However, they did not make the trip to the ranch.

Only a small group of aides went with the candidates to the ranch for the briefing from Johnson and Cyrus K. Vance, No. 2 man at the Paris peace talks on the Vietnam war.

With the Nixon and Agnew families was Julie Nixon, younger daughter of the former vice president. She had been ill earlier.

At the airport, a surprised Nixon spotted a crowd of about 150 well-wishers and veered off his course to greet them.

"How did you know we would be here?" Nixon asked the crowd. "We hadn't publicized this because this is a non-political trip. Thank you for coming out. We will be back on a political trip soon and will visit with you longer then."

Ten minutes after his jet landed here, Nixon and his party were aboard a White House helicopter and taking off en route to the LBJ Ranch.

He and Gov. Agnew were en route to San Diego, where they were to hold a series of campaign strategy sessions for about 10 days.

On hand for the arrival was a large contingent of San Antonio police officers and Secret Service men. A medical doctor, who declined to give his name, also stood by with his little black bag.

The doctor told newsmen that he was there unofficially, although one airport spokesman said he had been hired by the Secret Service.

Sacramento Convention Set Abuzz

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Striving for a look of unity, California Democrats opened their state convention today, buzzing over the announcement by South Dakota Sen. George McGovern that he will seek the party's presidential nomination.

And just as the meeting started in the Assembly chamber, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, another Democratic candidate, arrived at the Sacramento Municipal Airport, greeted by an estimated 2,500 enthusiastic fans.

McCarthy was scheduled to address the uncommitted 174-vote delegation to the Democratic National Convention later in the day.

Convention speculation centered on the effect of McGovern's announcement on the delegation's leanings and rumors that the delegation leader, Assembly Speaker Jesse M. Unruh might be headed toward a McCarthy endorsement — a move that likely would take many of the delegates with him.

But a key delegation member, Assemblyman Willie Brown Jr., of San Francisco, said the group would remain uncommitted down to the convention.

Teacher's Case Still Undecided

Despite testimony from experts in psychology, criminology, theology and philosophy, a formal hearing for Garnet E. Brennan, Marin's pot-smoking school teacher, ended in Marin Superior Court yesterday without providing an acceptable definition of morality.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner closed the oral portion of the case and asked attorneys for Mrs. Brennan and the Nicasio School District to submit legal briefs on whether the teacher should be rehired by the district.

Mrs. Brennan, 58, was fired last fall after she filed a sworn affidavit, in support of a friend convicted of selling marijuana, saying she had smoked marijuana in the privacy of her home for 18 years without ill effects.

Judge Gardiner must decide whether Mrs. Brennan's admission that she violated a state law for 18 years constituted immoral conduct under the provisions of the state education code.

He must also determine whether the school district acted properly in instituting a recent

Air Reserves' Training Hop Proves Fatal

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A series of accidents yesterday, including the crash of an Air Force Flying Boxcar, a train wreck and two bus accidents, have caused death and scores of injuries across the nation.

The combined toll today stood at 10 dead and more than 180 injured in six unrelated mishaps.

Six Air Force reservists were killed when the C119 Flying Boxcar on a training flight crash landed in a pasture shortly after taking off from Clinton County Air Force Base near Wilmington, Ohio.

The crew of four and 21 other reservists passengers survived. The reservists, all from the southwestern Ohio area, were midway through their annual two week summer training program and were en route to Otis AFB Mass.

Air Force sources said the pilot "knew he was losing flying capability and elected to crash land." A military inquiry team was seeking to determine why the plane lost power through examination of the wreckage.

Near Middletown, Ohio, a teen-age motorist was killed and

Airliner Too Low; 32 Die, 5 Survive

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) —A twin-engine Piedmont Airlines plane slammed down just short of a mile-long runway at Charleston's mountaintop airport today, killing 32 of the 37 persons aboard.

Piedmont officials said the plane, a Fairchild turbo-prop FH227, was making an instrument approach to the 982-foot-high airport when it crashed and burned.

The five survivors were rushed to local hospitals by some of the more than two dozen ambulances which raced to the scene. All but one was described as in "very critical condition."

The U.S. Weather Bureau said the airport visibility at the time of the crash—pinpointed at 8:56 a.m. (EDT)—was one mile, due to fog and smoke.

Another 50 yards higher and the airliner would have cleared a 300-foot ravine before the runway on which the plane was attempting to land.

As it was the plane hit below the crest of the deep ravine, skidded to the top and continued onward for 75 yards about 50 feet to the right of the 150-foot-wide concrete strip.

Piedmont officials said the plane was en route from Louisville, Ky., to Norfolk, Va. It had Ohio,, and was scheduled for stops at Roanoke, Richmond and Newport News, Va., after leaving Charleston.

Col. Ralph Cowgill of the West Virginia Air National Guard said the plane burned for "less than 15 minutes" after the crash. Two big National Guard pump trucks stationed less than a half-mile away from the crash site quickly brought the fire under control.

"There wasn't any warning—nothing . . . nobody sensed anything," cried 19-year-old Barbara Schiller—one of the survivors —from her hospital bed. Miss Schiller, a resident of Cincinnati, said she was flying to Virginia Beach, Va., on a holiday weekend with two friends.

"I thought it was all a bad dream, just a bad dream," she sobbed. "I wasn't even looking out the window when it happened. I blacked out and when I woke up they were throwing foam all over us."

Miss Schiller said she wasn't anxious to make the flight because her sister-in-law's parents were killed in a plane crash last year.

Ted Armbrecht, a Charleston department store official, said he was sitting in a private plane with pilot Ralph Stone waiting for the Piedmont craft to land.

"All of a sudden there was a whoomp," Armbrecht said. The two men said they looked out of the window of their plane and saw wreckage hurtling through the air as flames spewed from the stricken airliner.

"Three or four persons were stumbling around outside the wreckage and we helped them into ambulances," Stone said. "We couldn't do anything for the others. The fire was too bad."

Little Rock Clampdown Halts Riots

COMBINED AP & UPI

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Negroes smashed windows and damaged vehicles during the night in an angry outburst of violence that followed the police shooting of a protest marcher. National Guardsmen cordoned a 100-block area and police imposed a curfew today to restore calm.

With the area peaceful again today, the cordon was removed. Damage from the night's violence appeared small. But the National Guardsmen were kept in uniform in case of further outbreaks.

Sporadic gunfire echoed through the district near downtown Little Rock during the night. Guard troops moved into another predominantly Negro area where several fires broke out after the demonstrator, an 18-year-old boy, was wounded.

Police said there were few injuries in the troubled areas. More than 25 persons were arrested.

Police said the youth, Larry Turner, was shot in the leg by Patrolman Don Wood after Turner threw a rock at the policeman, breaking his collarbone. The incident inflamed a previously peaceful march to the county courthouse protesting the death of a young Negro inmate at the county penal farm.

The inmate, Curtis Ingram Jr., 18, died at the prison Aug. 2. He was found with a cut on his neck in what authorities

Negro Leader 'Chilly' To GOP's Slate

NEW YORK (AP) — Roy Wilkins says of the Republican presidential ticket of Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, "The early reaction (by Negroes) to both has been chilly."

In a statement yesterday, Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said:

"Nixon in his acceptance address sought to appeal to all segments of the population without indicating how he proposes to deal equitably with those who are basically satisfied with the status quo and those who are seething with discontent.

"Nixon sounds as if he is asking fair treatment for Negroes but at the same time he is advocating state control under which the poor and the minorities have been deprived of their fair share of federal programs.

"Nixon calls for substitution of the pay check for the relief check but his platform relies on the private employer with little mention of the responsibility of a federal employment program.

"He rightfully condemns rioting but ignores violence directed against the black population."

Herrera Attacks Witness Who Described His Boasts

By ALAN JONES

An enraged Joaquin Antonio Herrera leaped across the courtroom yesterday and tried to attack a fellow County Jail inmate on the witness stand.

Herrera, his self-control cracking, overturned a table and got within a few feet of inmate Joe Henderson before Deputy District Atty. Ernest C. Zunino grabbed him in a bear hug and held him until Bailiff Arthur Wiggins caught up with him.

Herrera calmed for a moment, but began to struggle again. Wiggins dragged him from the court with a choke hold when Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson ordered him removed.

The uproar took place at 11:50 a.m., and Wilson recessed court until 2 p.m. Herrera was placed in handcuffs and a belt chain for the afternoon session.

Herrera is on trail in Marin Superior Court for the murder of Army Sp 5 Ronald Lee Washburn in San Rafael Jan. 9.

Henderson, serving a one-year jail term for passing a bad check, was testifying that Herrera boasted in jail that he could beat the murder charge by making the court and jury believe he was crazy.

"He said they'd try to prove he wasn't crazy... and he would get sentenced to a mental hospital —" Henderson said, when Herrera flipped the table over and went for him.

Henderson said Herrera had joked in jail about a psychological test he took and

Cycle Club's Plans Rapped

The Black Point Improvement Club, "very upset" over a motorcycle training and meet site planned for the area, agreed last night to see if there are any avenues open to stop it, according to club president Henry Torget.

The site is a six-acre tract at Highway 37 and Atherton Avenue. Marin County Zoning Administrator Thomas E. Cordill denied the use request from the San Rafael Motorcycle Club, but the county planning commission overruled the decision July 29.

Torget said the Black Point group and residents of the area were not notified of the plans and did not know the legal steps they could have taken until it was too late.

The club honored Mrs. Edna Nolan, its treasurer, on her retirement after 25 years from the Southern Pacific Railroad and for her efforts to bring natural gas to the Black Point area.

Agnew, Immigrant's Son, Climbs To High Point Of Political Life

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Maryland's Gov. Spiro T. Agnew, son of a Greek immigrant who changed his name from Anagnostopoulos, capped a meteoric political career Thursday when he was named by Richard M. Nixon as his choice for vice presidential running mate in November.

A Democrat-turned-Republican, Agnew is 49, one of the youngest governors the state has ever had and the first of Greek descent.

Born the son of a Greek restaurateur in Baltimore, Agnew reached adolescence during the depression years and frequently helped his family supplement their modest income with odd jobs after school.

He watched helplessly as his father's restaurant business failed and the elder Agnew was forced to eke a living by hawking vegetables.

Graduating from a Baltimore public high school in 1937, he entered Johns Hopkins University as a chemistry major, but after three years decided that test tubes were just not his calling.

He transferred to the University of Baltimore night law school and took a job with the Maryland Casualty to support himself. It was while there that he met a secretary named Elinore Isobal (Judy) Judiefind. Four months later they were engaged.

Their marriage was postponed, however, by World War II, and it was not until he graduated from officers candidate school at Fort Knox, Ky., in 1942 that the two were married.

Two years later, he was shipped overseas and saw action in France and Germany, including the Battle of the Bulge. He won four battle stars, the

Czechs Roar Welcome To Friend Tito

PRAGUE (AP) — Yugoslav President Tito, his ears still ringing with one of the warmest welcomes in recent Czechoslovak history, meets again today with reform Communist leaders to further plot the course of their independent Communist programs.

Tito, whose staunch support was one of the crucial factors in Czechoslovakia's successful showdown with the Soviet leadership last weekend, was cheered by thousands of Czechoslovaks who massed in front of Hradcany Castle demanding that he speak to them.

"Tito, Tito," they chanted.

"Long live the friendship between our peoples and may it prosper," replied the onetime guerrilla leader as he stepped out onto a balcony to acknowledge his reception.

Beside Tito was the leader of Czechoslovakia's liberalization drive, party leader Alexander Dubcek.

TWO DECADES

It was 20 years ago that Tito became an outcast of the Communist world by defying Joseph Stalin and guiding his own country to an independent course.

In a move aparently timed with Tito's visit, the Czechoslovak Communist party announced a series of proposed changes to party rules that would give the rank and file a bigger voice in party affairs. The proposals were printed in today's edition of the party newspaper Rude Pravo.

They declared that a person should be free to leave and join the party of his own free will.

Within the party, the draft continued, members should have the right to voice opinions at public meetings and to criticize party leaders and activities regardless of their rank. No special privileges should come from party membership.

SEPARATE ROLES

The proposals also suggested that leading party and state positions should not be combined.

It was also announced that Lt. Gen. Vaclav Prchlik, who was removed from a top party job as an apparent conciliatory gesture before the Czechoslovak-Soviet meetings, had been nominated for a position on the party's Central Committee.

He had come under heavy Soviet criticism for advocating more equality in the Moscow dominated Warsaw Pact. But his removal caused intellectuals and writers to demand that he been given another job.

Meanwhile in Moscow, the Soviet Communist Party today attacked the style of liberalization taking place in Czechoslovakia.

In a 7,000 word article published in the Communist party paper Pravda, the Soviet Central Committee declared, "Historical experience has shown that all and every deviation from the principles of Marxist-Leninist teaching, all and every attempt to substitute bourgeois-liberal theory or pseudorevolutionary phrases for the scientific theory, inevitably enter into irreconcilable conflict with . . . the basic interests of socialism."

Tito was scheduled to remain in Czechoslovakia until tomorrow.

His visit will be followed by that of another Czechoslovak supporter, Romanian party chief Nicolae Ceaucescu, who is expected next week.

Fearful Black Panther Surrenders To Court

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Black Panther Anthony Bartholomew, 19, the lone survivor among four Negroes in a shootout with Los Angeles police, walked into a heavily guarded courtroom yesterday and surrendered

His court appearance followed four days of public pleas by Negro organizations that he give up. Negro leaders feared that if police located him, another gunbattle would erupt in Los Angeles' predominantly Negro south central area.

Bartholomew's fellow Panthers had spurned the pleas of the other Negro groups with contempt. Panther Chairman Bobby Seale called them "bootlicking niggers," and said:

"The Panthers will never give up one of its own to the murdering racist pigs."

Bartholomew's attorney, Gary Bellow, contacted the district attorney's office yesterday morning to arrange the surrender. He said Bartholomew was "in fear of his life" and asked that special protection be given him.

Ten armed Sheriff's deputies were in the courtroom of Municipal Judge Joan Dempsey Klein when Bartholomew arrived. Besides the attorney, he was accompanied by his father, Reno Bartholomew, and an uncle.

Perspiring heavily, Bartholomew nervously twisted a handkerchief while Judge Klein arraigned him on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. Bail was set at $50,000. A preliminary hearing will be held Aug. 20.

Two policemen, Norman J. Roberge, 28, and Rudy Limas, 25, still are hospitalized with serious wounds received in Monday's gunfight.

The battle, and another unrelated shooting in Los Angeles' Watts area, caused California Lt. Gov. Robert Finch to make a rush trip home from the Republican National Convention in Miami Beach. He said later that information given him about the violence was "exaggerated."

The shootout occurred after the officers ordered four Negro youths out of a car in a gas station, and lined them up behind the vehicle.

Police claim one of the four pulled out a concealed weapon and opened fire.

When the shooting was over, three of the Negroes lay dead. They were Bartholomew's brother, Stephen, 21, Robert Lawrence, 22, and Thomas Melvin Lewis, 18.

Police Chief Thomas Reddin said the Bartholomew brothers and Lawrence were members of the Black Panthers.

Mansfield Visiting Paris — With Moscow Message?

PARIS (UPI)—Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, returning from Moscow and Eastern Europe, may carry a message today from the Kremlin to U.S. Vietnam war negotiators, diplomatic sources said.

Mansfield spent one day in the Soviet capital this week. The sources said the Kremlin may have given him a message for W. Averell Harriman, America's chief Paris negotiator.

The Montana Democrat was scheduled to meet almost immediately with Harriman after his arrival from Prague.

There was no indication what the contents of the message might be. Mansfield held no public meeting with Soviet leaders during his stay in Moscow.

The Russians have supplied North Vietnam extensively with war material and wield a heavy influence in Hanoi's policy-making councils.

American officials played down Mansfield's tour as a pleasure trip. But the fact he was accompanied by the secretary of tne Senate and a State Department aide underscored reports he was on a quiet mission concerning the Vietnam talks.

A frequent critic of White House policy on Vietnam, Mansfield planned to spend much of his four-day visit with a daughter in school near Paris. U.S. sources said the only other item on his agenda was the conference with Harriman.

In Prague, he met Josef Smrkovsky, president of the Czechoslovak parliament. The Czech news agency quoted Smrkovsky as telling him "the problems hampering a settlement of relations between the United States and Czechoslovakia can be overcome."

Mansfield's visit to Prague coincided with the arrival of President Tito of Yugoslavia, so he did not get to see Alexander Dubcek, the leader of Czechoslovakia's liberalization movement.

In another Paris development, U.S. delegation sources said American intelligence in Vietnam points to a Communist offensive which would further hurt efforts at the talks aimed at cooling off the war and finding a basis for peace.

Anti-Czech War Games Watched By Kremlin Brass

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko is observing the final stage of massive Red army maneuvers near the Czechoslovak border, the armed forces newspaper revealed today.

Officers at the scene told Grechko yesterday that the exercises prove the Soviet army "is capable of fulfilling any task of the Communist party or the Soviet government," the newspaper Red Star said.

The exercises were considered by Western observers to be aimed at pressuring Czechoslovakia's liberal regime to steer a course more acceptable to the conservative Soviet Communist hierarchy.

The maneuvers, officially described as the largest rear-echelon exercises in the history of the Soviet army, are taking place in parts of the Soviet Union, Poland and East Germany.

President William Henry Harrison was the father of 10 children, more than any other president.

San Francisco's Gun Law Upheld In Court Order

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—San Francisco's stiff new gun law has survived its first court test.

The measure requires all firearms in the city to be registered with police. It is scheduled to go into effect Aug. 17.

Superior Court Judge Andrew J. Eyman yesterday denied a petition filed by John Galvan against Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, Police Chief Thomas Cahill and the city's board of supervisors. Galvan represented about 30 gun clubs.

The petition sought to postpone the effective date of the law on grounds it violated the second, fourth and fifth amendments to the U.S. Constitution.

Eyman held that the law would not violate constitutional rights and further held that the city's ordinance would not be pre-empted by existing state codes.

Clues Sought To German Air Tragedy

MUNICH, Germany (AP) — The automatic flight recorder of a British turboprop airliner which crashed yesterday, killing all 48 persons aboard, has been recovered intact. Police said today it may hold a clue to the cause of the disaster.

The recorder was found as investigators began probing through the scattered wreckage of British Eagle Airways Flight 802, which had been en route from London to Innsbruck, Austria.

NEAR HIGHWAY

The four-engine Vickers Viscount slammed down in a field just off the Munich-Nuernberg autobahn, 25 miles north of this Bavarian capital. Witnesses said the plane seemed to be breaking up as it fell.

An Eagle Airways commission, led by Capt. B. M. Williams, arrived in Munich to participate in the investigation ordered by West German Transportation Minister Georg Leber. A team of the federal aviation agency in Brunswick was already at the scene.

Work crews were busy clearing the four-lane autobahn of debris. That section of the superhighway, which was sealed off for more than 24 hours, had been pitted by flying wreckage.

LOST RUDDER

Bavarian state police discounted speculation that the pilot, Capt. John Dawdy, 42, might have tried to make an emergency landing on the autobahn. Police officials said the plane skimmed the autobahn at a sharp angle and probably was made unmaneuverable when it lost its rudder about 1,000 yards before it crashed.

Authorities said no Americans were involved.

NAMING BODIES

All bodies were taken to an Ingolstadt cemetery where police officials, doctors, dentists and X-ray specialists tried to identify them. British authorities were asked to supply all known particulars on the 45 passengers and crewmen who had British home addresses to facilitate identification.

Others on the plane were three passengers—Robert Stotter of Lienz, Austria, and Mr. and Mrs. A. Teichner of Haifa, Israel.

Arrigoni Heads Fibrosis Drive

Supervisor-elect Peter R. Arrigoni has been named county campaign chairman for Cystic Fibrosis Week, Sept. 15 through 22, it was announced today by Mrs. E. Pieri, president of the Marin chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation.

A door-to-door campaign will be launched during that week to raise funds for research to combat the childhood disease.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Ike Is Gaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors said today former President Dwight D. Eisenhower is making such "constant improvement" after his recent major heart attack that he is no longer being given oxygen on a continuous basis.

The continuing optimistic word came as a five-star general, 77, was nearing the end of a one-week "critical period" which his doctors said follows any heart attack.

Trains Crash; 8 Die

CAIRO (AP) — Two trains collided today just outside Alexandria, killing eight persons and injuring more than 100, the Middle East News agency reported. The engineers of both trains perished in the wreck.

Priests Arrested

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, (AP) — More than 100 people including 15 priests, have been arrested by police searching for the killer of a local police chief, it was reported today.

Unofficial reports indicate that many of those arrested will be sent to other parts of Spain.

The police chief, Meliton Manzanas Gonzales, was shot Aug. 2. He had been a longtime foe of the Basque separatist organization ETA.

The ETA wants to make a separate country of three north Spanish provinces.

Pope Backed

ISTANBUL (AP) — Ecumenical Patriarch Athenagoras, spiritual leader of world Orthodox Churches, says he approves of Pope Paul VI's encyclical against birth control by artificial means.

In a statement at his Holy See yesterday, Athenagoras said, "The Pope's encyclical is in line with the Bible."

U.S.-Japan Ties

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson said today American troops and bases "are here to help deter a war in which Japan might be involved, and to help Japan fight that war if deterrence fails."

The envoy to Tokyo told a Junior Chamber of Commerce seminar that seen from this viewpoint, "the U.S. and Japanese community of interest can be clearly grasped."

Johnson's speech was seen as a reply to leftwing opposition here to the presence of U.S. bases in Japan and the expected extension of the U.S.-Japanese security treaty in 1970.

Killings In Korea

SEOUL (AP) — South Korean troops killed four North Korean intruders in two encounters today along the demilitarized zone on the central front, the Defense Ministry announced.

This brought to six the number of infiltrators killed this week by South Koreans along the DMZ.

The report said one South Korean soldier was wounded.

Onions For Heart?

LONDON (AP) — Three doctors believe that the lowly onion may avert the deadly process of leading to heart failure.

The British Medical Journal published a report of the physicians who took 22 patients aged 19 to 78 and fed them breakfasts with and withofut fried or boiled onions.

The onions prevented the breakdown of fibrin, a substance associated with bloodclotting, which can contribute to a coronary.

Lambeth Vs. Pope

LONDON (AP)—Bishops at the Lambeth Conference have rejected a suggestion that the Pope may someday become the leader of a unified church containing Anglicans.

The proposal came from a study committee that stated yesterday that, although Anglicans could not accept the ideas of papal infallibility and immediate and universal jurisdiction, "we believe that a considerable majority of Anglicans would be prepared to accept the Pope as having primacy of love, implying both honor and service, in a renewed and reunited church, as would seem right on both historic and pragmatic grounds."

Bishops immediately were on their feet to attack the idea as unrealistic, savering of prophecy and offensive to Evangelical churchmen.

Singer To Be Dean

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Maxine Andrews, one of the two surviving Andrews Sisters singing act, said yesterday she will retire from the entertainment world to become dean of women at Tahoe Paradise College.

Biafra Claims Win

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Biafra claimed today it has beaten back a three-pronged Nigerian attack in a sector east of Port Harcourt.

Lynda Bird Parties

NEW PORT, R.I. (AP) — Lynda Bird Johnson Robb arrived last night for a dinner party aboard a chartered yacht and a visit with friends.

The President's oldest daughter wore a black and white striped maternity dress. She was accompanied by an unidentified woman and three men presumed to be Secret Service agents.

Star Takes Leave

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bea Benaderet, who underwent treatment last fall and winter for cancer, said yesterday she will take extended leave from "Petticoat Junction," the CBS television comedy series, effective immediately.

Westmoreland Doubtful Of Lull

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army Chief of Staff, says he expects the lull in the Vietnam ground war to end soon.

Westmoreland, on an inspection tour, received a 19-gun salute at the San Francisco Presidio, headquarters of the 6th Army.

He discounted talk that the enemy is easing the pace of war to encourage peace talks.

"I think they will attack in the next several weeks," he said, yesterday. "I think they will incur tremendous losses."

East Bay Coins Treasure Stolen

OAKLAND (AP) — Police have disclosed the theft of rare coins worth more than $85,000, and $14,000 in modern currency.

The collection included gold and silver coins minted by the ancient Greeks, the Romans and Byzantine empires. Some date to the pre-Christian era.

Also missing were several rare United States coins, police said Friday.

The owner, Leo A. Young of Lafayette, valued the collection at more than $85,000. The coins and the cash were taken from a safe at his office in Oakland between July 20 and 22.

Pair Plead Guilty On Dope Device

Ronald D. Rulles, 32, and Susan Marie Miller, 23, both of no fixed address, pleaded guilty in Marin Municipal Court yesterday to misdemeanor charges of possessing devices for smoking marijuana.

The district attorney dismissed a felony charge that they had two suitcases containing marijuana and the couple was told to return to court Oct. 3 for sentencing.

Saigon Hears Roar Of Bombs In B52 Raids

SAIGON (AP) — Buildings in downtown Saigon vibrated to the rolling thunder of bombs today as American B-52 Stratofortresses rained explosives on enemy bases and infiltration routes within a 30 mile radius of the capital.

The eight-jet bombers flew seven missions this morning, west, north and east of Saigon. The shock of exploding bombs was clearly felt in the city although some of the raids were far north in the central highlands.

U.S. spokesmen said atmospheric conditions and the intensity of the strikes made them appear much closer.

U.S. fighter-bombers also flew 130 missions over North Vietnam yesterday amid rumors from Washington and Saigon that a complete halt in the bombing of North Vietnam may be ordered soon.

An Air Force F105 Thunderchief was reported shot down just north of the demilitarized zone, the 878th U.S. plane lost over the North.

Radio Hanoi claimed that two men from the downed plane were captured, but the Air Force listed only the pilot as missing. F105s usually fly with a two-man crew.

On Saturday government spokesmen reported that South Vietnamese fighter-bombers strafed suspected enemy troop concentrations northwest of Saigon along the Cambodian border. Infantrymen sweeping the area later reported finding 35 enemy bodies and two destroyed antiaircraft positions.

In the ground war, the U.S. Command reported allied troops were mopping up after two major cordon operations today.

In one, five miles northeast of Hue, paratroopers of the 101st Air Cavalry Division teamed up with Navy personnel and Vietnamese units to seal off a populated coastal area heavily laced with Viet Cong tunnels and bunkers, killing 46 and capturing 98.

Twenty-five miles north of Saigon another allied force surrounded the village of Chanh-Luu, on a suspected Viet Cong infiltration route. The allies killed 17 enemy soldiers, captured 67 suspects and seized more than three tons of food and weapons.

BRENNAN

hearing by a state administrative officer, who recommended that Mrs. Brennan not be rehired.

The briefs must be submitted by Sept. 16, Judge Gardiner said.

Stewart Weinberg, San Francisco attorney representing the teacher, argued yesterday that the judge may only decide if Mrs. Brennan's act of signing the affidavit was improper, not if the behavior admitted in the affidavit was immoral.

Mrs. Brennan testified yesterday that she signed the paper to help her friend, Melkon Melkonian of Mill Valley, who faced a prison sentence for selling marijuana.

She signed the affidavit only to influence the sentencing judge, Joseph Karesh of San Francisco Superior Court, but not to advocate the use of marijuana, she said.

The teacher said she was told the affidavit would only be presented in court and had no idea it would become a public record. She was surprised to see her name in the newspapers the next day, she said.

Asked if she would do it again, Mrs. Brennan said:

"I wouldn't do anything that would hurt the children. I wouldn't want the students to break the law."

Rev. Anthony Nugent of 23 Laurel Wood Avenue, Mill Valley, a presbyterian minister who wears his hair at shoulder length, told the judge he has studied moral philosophy and social ethics and thinks Mrs. Brennan's signing of the affidavit was a moral act.

He backed his belief by citing texts from the Bible's old and new testaments.

Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, said he thinks Mrs. Brennan's affidavit has influenced children and cited a ditty his 10-year-old daughter sang the other night to the tune of Frere Jacques:

"Marijuana, Marijuana LSD, LSD. Teachers say they smoke it. Why can't we? Why can't we?"

OBITUARIES

Bessie Best Dies At 80

Mrs. Bessie M. Best, 80, a Marin resident for the past year, died last night at a local hospital after a short illness.

Mrs. Best was born in Omaha, Neb., and came to San Francisco when she was 4 years old. She lived there until moving to San Rafael to live with her son, Robert F. Best of 400 Canal Street.

She was the widow of Frank W. Best who had been with the Spring Valley Water Co. in San Francisco. She was a member of Niles Post Spanish-American War Veterans Auxiliary and the Fidelity Sterling Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, both in San Francisco.

Survivors are four sons, Robert F. and Richard J. Best of San Rafael, Frank W. Best of San Francisco and Charles R. Best Sr. of San Anselmo; three grandchildren and a great-grandchild.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. Monday at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery.

HERBERT HARTSOOK

Herbert J. Hartsook, father of Mrs. Charles Nelson of San Rafael, died yesterday at his ranch in Sonora, Tuolumne County, after a long illness. He was 69.

Hartsook, a native Californian and member of a family that has been here since the Gold Rush days, was a rancher. He was the husband of Delores L. Hartsook, who grew up in Marin.

He is also survived by a daughter, Mrs. John Russell of Petaluma; a brother, Harry F. Hartsook of Bakersfield, and seven grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Monday at the Keaton Chapel in San Rafael. Requiem mass will be offered at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday at St. Sylvester Church, 115 San Pedro Road, San Rafael. Burial wll be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

a man of either peace or compassion."

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon is the Republican nominee for president.

"I have heard talk about the 'new Nixon'," McGovern said, "but the Bible warned us long ago about the danger of putting new wine into an old bottle."

The senator recalled his own longstanding opposition to the Vietnam conflict and said "that war must be ended now—not next year or the year following, but now."

In an apparent slap at Humphrey's support of the Johnson administration's war policies, McGovern said "it is our responsibility to take to the American people a platform and a leadership determined to reverse this error—not to rationalize it."

He also called for:

An end to the draft and substitution of a voluntary enlistment plan.

Harnessing "the full spiritual and political resources of this nation to put an end to the shameful remnants of racism and poverty that still afflict our land."

Systematic reduction of the nation's military-industrial complex.

Democrats bear a special burden, McGovern said, because of the party's 1964 declaration that "we seek no wider war."

McGovern's announcement was followed almost immediately by a statement from Pierre Salinger, press secretary to the late President John Kennedy and a leading figure in the Robert Kennedy presidential campaign, that he was on McGovern's side.

The Texas White House said there was no comment from President Johnson on McGovern's declaration.

IN MEMORIAM

IN MEMORIAM

D. FRANK MONTE — In loving memory of our son and brother D. FRANK MONTE, who passed away August 12, 1965.
Closed are the eyes that lighted our lives
In the dear, dead yesterdays;
And silent the voice we loved to hear,
Sweet and gentle in chiding or praise;
Dark are the days since you've gone from our home
Cold and cheerless and gray,
And missing you, dear, is the pain that our hearts
Will bear until life's last day.

HERRERA

discussed various defenses he might use to beat the murder charge.

Herrera only had hallucinations in jail, Henderson said, "when he was putting on a show for someone." On July 28, Henderson said, Herrera wanted to bet him $3 he would "fool the people upstairs and downstairs," meaning the court and the jailers.

They discussed self-defense, charging a conspiracy by Herrera's mother-in-law and other ideas before Herrera decided on insanity as his way out, Henderson said.

He said Herrera described how he took "a soldier" with his hands handcuffed behind his back, asked him if he had anything to say, "and then Mr. Herrera shot him."

"He said he could do it again . . . and never miss a night's sleep," Henderson said.

With the jury out of the courtroom, Wilson warned Herrera before the afternoon session began that if necessary he would have him put under greater restraint, and would have him gagged if necessary to continue the trial.

Herrera said he would try to contain himself, but "what the witness said was put in his mouth by the district attorney's office."

Herrera's defense was further shaken in the afternoon when psychiatrist Walter Rappoport testified that Herrera had no mental disorder that would hinder his perception of right and wrong or knowledge of consequences of illegal acts.

Rappoport said Herrera told him several different stories of the slaying, admitted in a second examination that he had told many lies in the first examination, and feigned emotional outbursts that were really under control.

After one histrionic recital about the killing, Rappoport said, Herrera turned to him and asked in a calm voice, "Doctor, doesn't this mean schizophrenia?"

Rappoport said Herrera had read the reports of another psychiatrist who examined him, Dr. George R. Caesar, and discussed psychological terms with Rappoport and explained that Caesar had misunderstood his answers.

The trial will enter its 15th day at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Judge Wilson indicated the case may go to the jury Thursday morning.

Federal Commission Orders Gas Refunds

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — California consumers of natural gas are in store for a refund that could reach $8 a customer.

The Federal Power Commission yesterday ordered the $75 million refund and additional rate reductions that could amount to $9 million, in the long-argued El Paso Natural Gas rate case.

San Franciscans Table Hub Plea On Span Plaza

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A board of supervisor's committee yesterday tabled a San Anselmo City Council resolution against proposed Golden Gate Bridge plaza improvements pending completion of a bridge study of one-way toll fares.

Dale W. Luehring, general manager of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, told the supervisors' state and national affairs committee that the bridge board has decided to go along with its own building and operating committee's recommendation to delay any toll plaza modernization until experiments in the one-way charging system can be conducted.

Kenneth L. Anderson, San Anselmo Councilman present at yesterday's meeting, said that committee action on the resolution could await the outcome of the tolls study, according to Mary Keeley, assistant clerk of the San Francisco board.

Anderson introduced a resolution before the city council July 23 asking that the plan for relocation and expansion of the plaza be dropped or at least postponed until current investigations into other plans are finished.

He said the bridge board wanted to spend $9 million or more on the plaza project but he believes that the "oppressive congestion of our roads can only be aggrevated by further spending catering to the private automobile."

Alioto Proposes All-Union Buying

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An ordinance requiring all city goods and services to be purchased from union shops was proposed yesterday by Mayor Joseph Alioto.

The mayor announced he had asked the city attorney to draft the law and then will ask the board of supervisors for its enactment.

Alioto also said he is investigating to find out why San Francisco pays the Union Oil Co. $21 per ton for road paving asphalt while Los Angeles pays $15.68.

Railroad Refused Nod To Drop Train

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday ordered the Southern Pacific to keep its Cascade train running between Portland and Oakland.

The railroad asked to drop the train Aug. 22. But the ICC ordered an investigation. This will continue the trains for four months, pending the outcome of the investigation.

described as "an incident with a trusty." A Catholic priest, who investigated the incident, said a guard had ordered the trusty to beat Ingram. The trusty was charged with manslaughter.

Police said about 300 to 400 Negroes were involved in the disorder last night.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller called out 300 National Guardsmen and put another 300 on alert.

Meanwhile, a heavy rain and a strict curfew today appeared to have put a damper on Miami, Florida's first major racial disorders.

The calm was uneasy, following 48 hours of looting, burning, and shooting that left three Negroes dead, dozens injured, 222 arrested and damage estimated at $192,000.

About 600 National Guard troops were stationed in an armory near the Liberty City, a Negro neighborhood that was the scene of the worst disorder.

In Hartford, Conn., police used tear gas to disperse a crowd of some 40 Negro youths in a rock- and bottle-throwing incident late last night.

Six policemen were injured, four police cars damaged, and three arrests were made, police reported.

In East Point, Ga., gangs of Negroes engaged in brick and bottle throwing and sniper fire in this Atlanta suburb early today after police attempted to break up a noisy party.

All 80 men of the police force were ordered out into the streets to quell the disturbance by 350 to 400 persons in an apartment building complex in an area known as Baird Circle.

"It was just like it has been happening all over the country," said Police Capt. Roy E. Stanley who said the disturbance virtually reached riot status.

"But I don't believe it really had racial overtones. Those people just got mad when police came out and tried to break up their party."

Leak Hampers Work On Trans-Bay Tube

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A leak developed after the 36th of 57 330-foot tube sections was laid for the Bay Area Rapid Transit system's under-bay tunnel, officials say.

The tube is being pumped out this weekend, and officials hope the leak will be fixed in time for resumption of major work Monday.

Unable To Meet With Lindsay, Leaps To Death

NEW YORK (UPI)—An elderly derelict known only as "Red" spent six hours perched atop the 65-foot mast of a lightship docked in New York harbor yesterday, listening to the pleas of police, a priest and the city comptroller before plunging headfirst to his death.

"Where were you when I needed you?" the derelict asked the priest, who had climbed up to the crow's nest below the man in an attempt to talk him out of jumping.

The derelict said he wanted to speak with Mayor John Lindsay "or somebody important, because I have a lot of things to tell him." Lindsey was on his way back to the city from the Republican convention in Miami Beach.

A familiar figure in the dockside area near the lightship, Red resisted the offer of a bottle of wine, ignored the plea of Mario Procaccino, the city's comptroller, and finally jumped just as two police were climbing up the mast after him.

Japanese Heart Patient Wakes Up

SAPPORO, Japan (UPI)—Japan's first heart transplant recipient began regaining consciousness today and doctors turned off a mechanical respirator that was helping him breathe.

Two days after the operation, Nobuo Miyazaki, 18, "is doing all right," Dr. Juro Wada said. "This morning for the first time, he blinked his eyes and moved slightly when I talked with him."

more than 100 train passengers shaken up or injured when a station wagon struck the engine of a Baltimore & Ohio passenger train.

Five cars, including three passenger coaches, were derailed. Warren County Sheriff Byron Kennard estimated there were more than 100 passengers on the Cincinnati to Detroit train.

Near Cobleskill, N.Y., a Greyhound bus with 38 persons aboard overturned during a heavy rainstorm killing a teenage girl and injuring the others. Nine persons were hospitalized.

In Texas a woman passenger died and 27 other persons were injured when a crosscountry bus skidded across rainswept U.S. 87 and overturned.

The accident happened three miles south of Tulia in the Texas Panhandle while the bus, operated by Texas, New Mexico & Oklahoma Coaches, was enroute from Denver, Colo., to San Antonio, Tex.

In Idaho a pilot was killed when his converted torpedo-bomber crashed as he bore into a smoke haze to drop chemicals on a forest fire about 50 miles northeast of Boise.

And in Pine Mountain, Ga., six persons, including U.S. Rep. Richard L. Roudebush R-Ind., and his wife, were injured when their small plane crashed while attempting to land at the airport. All six were in fair condition.

Crash Victim Doing Better

A San Leandro youth who was critically injured in an automobile accident on Highway 17 Sunday, was reported improved and in fair condition at Marin General Hospital today.

Steve Craig Moller, 18, suffered head injuries, a broken left leg and a broken right arm when his car cartwheeled across Highway 17 and hit an oncoming car driven by Dearl Sudbury, 31, of Santa Rosa.

A companion, Susan Helen Ward, 18, of San Leandro, remains in critical condition with a possible spine injury, broken right leg and broken left arm.

Charges Dropped On Marijuana

I-J Special Report

REDWOOD CITY — A charge of possession of marijuana was dropped yesterday against Keith R. Goldsmith, son of U.S. Commissioner Richard S. Goldsmith of Mill Valley, in municipal court because of insufficient evidence.

Goldsmith, 24, of Menlo Park, was stopped near his home by Atherton police July 28 on suspicion of reckless driving. Police said they found marijuana in his car. Goldsmith still faces trial on yet another marijuana charge stemming from a May arrest in Menlo Park.

He will be arraigned Tuesday in San Mateo County Superior Court on the reckless driving complaint.

Submarine Hits Ship In Tow Near Spain

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nuclear submarine Von Steuben collided with a ship under tow in a freak accident 35 miles off the Atlantic coast of Spain yesterday, the Pentagon announced.

The sub received minor damage to its superstructure and main deck but no crewmen were injured, according to the Navy.

A spokesman said the Polaris-missile submarine was running submerged on a training mission when it hit a tow cable connecting the merchant tanker S. S. Sealady with the German tug Fairplay 10.

The Von Steuben surfaced immediately and collided with the Sealady.

Ferguson-Lococo Wedding At St. Rita's Church In Fairfax

St. Rita's Church in Fairfax was the setting Aug. 3 for the marriage of Katherine Lococo and John Ferguson.

Mrs. Thomas Manahan of San Anselmo was matron of honor. Bridesmaids included the bride's sisters, Margaret and Cecile Lococo; the bridegroom's sister, Julie; and Libbie Reid of Fairfax.

Best man for his brother was James Ferguson. Kenneth Ferguson, also the bridegroom's brother, Mark Nunes of Pacifica, Robert Jackson of San Francisco and Joseph Polio of South San Francisco were ushers.

Katherine is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gaeton Lococo of Fairfax. She was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and College of Marin. Joseph Lococo is her brother, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lococo of San Francisco are her grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. James Ferguson of South San Frnacisco are the bridegroom's parents. He attended South San Francisco High School and College of San Mateo and is employed by Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco. Mrs. Anita Leahy of San Francisco is his grandmother. Anne Ferguson is his sister.

Mrs. Cosmidis Is Wed To Louis Bardes

Mrs. Olympia Cosmidis of Tiburon was married Aug. 3 to Louis Bardes of Calistoga at the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Tiburon.

The bride was attended by her daughter, Mrs. Charles S. Parnell of Tiburon, and the best man was the bridegroom's son, Leo Bardes of Millbrae. The bride's son is Isidore E. Natsios of Tiburon. Mary Cannon of Sacramento is the bridegroom's daughter.

Following the ceremony the wedding party attended a champagne reception party at the Parnell home.

Louis Bardes is the proprietor of the Green Hotel in Calistoga which he built in 1928. He came to Calistoga from Salt Lake City, Utah, where he had settled shortly after his arrival from Greece. Mrs. Bardes arrived in San Francisco from Athens, Greece in 1959 and has lived with her daughter in Tiburon. The Bardes' will take a wedding trip to Santa Barbara and will make their home in Calistoga.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Is There Anything Wrong With Girls Showing Intelligence?

DEAR HELEN:

I wonder why so much stress is placed on girls being dumb and silent so that boys won't feel inferior? What's wrong with intelligence on both sides?

Here are my questions?

1. Why must anybody conceal her basic brains under the guise of helplessness, unsophistication, etc.?

2. Why must girls talk only about transitory things and never voice opinions, or engage in stimulating conversation requiring maturity, perception and knowledge:

3. Why are boys afraid of intelligent girls?

4. Are boys inferior, insecure or egotists desiring an unchallenged stage?

5. Are all successful dates mixed? That is: Superior and inferior: This raises another question: Which is which? And is our conception of superiority so inferior that we cannot endure equality? — CURIOUS B.B.

DEAR CURIOUS:

If an intelligent girl must play dumb and silent so that a boy won't feel inferior, she's chosen the wrong boy. And if a boy wants a helpless, unsophisticated ninny, he's in the wrong century.

An adequate man doesn't expect his woman to be the "barefooted and ten steps behind" type. But I'll go along with you, B.: Many men are still inadequate in this department. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I am 17. I was told, when I was very young, that my mother died. My father has remarried. Our family life isn't exactly close.

I overheard my father and step-mother discussing my real mother, and they finally admitted that she isn't dead, she's in a mental institution.

Now that we kids know, we want to visit her, but Dad won't let us. We feel we can help her. What should we do? — W.H.

DEAR W:

I can understand a father wanting to protect his children from shock, but now that you know your mother is alive, he might create greater traumas by keeping you away from her.

He should at least have you talk to a doctor who knows the case. Ask him that privilege, and then let the doctor advise whether a visit from you would help or hurt everyone concerned. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

Steve and I were juniors when we went steady for seven months. I broke up with him last summer because I couldn't handle him in the car. He actually made me walk two miles home from a date because I wouldn't give in. I was so scared and mad — two different men tried to pick me up — that I cried all night. Mother made me break up with him.

Steve got so mad he started a lot of bad rumors about me. When I tell people they're lies, they answer, "Boys don't lie about things like that." Boys ask me out now for one thing and get mad when I won't give.

My mother told Steve's mother, but he denied everything, and called me a liar. The other day Steve told me if I'd go steady with him again, he'd take everything back and tell people he lied. I'd rather die.

Isn't there some other way? — MARA

DEAR MARA:

Yes, there's another way. If you can prove Steve has started this slander, he can be shut up legally. Let him know your mother is in touch with a lawyer, and drop a hint that his last little talk with you was overheard. — H.

Sylvia Hyde Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Alton E. Hyde of San Rafael announce the engagement of their daughter, Sylvia Ann, to Stephen A. Valley of Hamilton Air Force Base.

The future bride is the sister of Eva D. Hyde of San Anselmo and Patricia and Edwin Hyde of San Rafael. Mrs. Winifred C. Brown of San Rafael is her grandmother. Sylvia was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and attended College of Marin.

Stephen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Stigall of Salem, Ore. He is the brother of Don Salberg and Mike and Tim Valley. A graduate of Corvallis High School, he is serving with the Air Force.

MR. AND MRS. Joseph Howard Jensen (Ann Foster) were married at the Mill Valley Community Church Saturday. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. Gordon L. Foster, who presided at the ceremony, and Mrs. Foster of Mill Valley. The couple will live in Berkeley. (Faulkner photo)

Roberta Bray Engaged To Wed Richard Takacs

The Ernest W. Brays of Greenbrae announce the engagement of their daughter Roberta Joan to Lt. Richard Joseph Takacs.

Roberta is the sister of Barbara L. Bray of San Rafael and Ernest I. Bray of Dorris. She was graduated from Redwood High School, attended College of Marin and received a bachelor's degree from California State Polytechnic College. Mr. and Mrs. Forrest E. Brown of Greenbrae and Oakland and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest C. Bray of Oakland are her grandparents.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Takacs of Whittier. He was graduated from Pioneer High School in Whittier and Cal. Poly.

The future bride is employed by Hutchinson Company in Greenbrae, and her fiance is with the Army, stationed in Indianapolis, Ind.

ROBERTA J. BRAY

The couple plan to wed Oct. 19 at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

SEW SIMPLE

Elastic Waistbands Work Best For Knit Suits And Slacks

DEAR EUNICE,

How can we adjust a pattern so that we may eliminate the waistband of skirts and slacks and use the elastic like the ones you find in ready-to-wear?

MRS. R. B. W.

DEAR MRS. R. B. W.:

I have checked with ready-to-wear clothes and find that the only waistbands that are cut with a casing and use elastic on skirts and slacks are made of knit fabric. The stretch in the knit fabric works beautifully with this kind of finish, however it would never work with other fabrics.

The garment would have to be cut much longer at the waist than necessary in order to be able to get it over your shoulders or up over your hips that the fabric would be bunchy and not give you the results you would like.

TAILOR TRIX WINNER

Mrs. June K. Ahrens, Rolla, Mo., is this week's Tailor Trix pressing board winner for her following tip.

"I'm one of those people who goes on a sewing spree and leaves my sewing machine open for days (or weeks) at a time, sewing whenever I can snatch enough time. I've found that an inexpensive pleated rain hat will fit the head of my sewing machine just right. It makes a dandy dust cover, keeping your machine in working order. It's so handy, takes up very little space when folded flat and not in use, and it takes no time to put it on or take it off."

DEAR EUNICE,

I feel that my upper arms aren't as attractive as they were when I was younger, and I don't feel comfortable with sleeveless dresses. It is very difficult to buy a jacket or make one that isn't sleeveless. Why is this? Surely I'm not the only woman in the world who wants sleeves.

MRS. R. E. B.

DEAR MRS. R. E. B.,

I must agree with you. Today, it is almost impossible to find a jacket and dress combination where the dress has sleeves, either in patterns or ready-to-wear. I see no reason why you can't add short sleeves to your dress if you remember to change the jacket sleeve. The sleeves of jackets are cut fairly close fitting today, and they would not be cut with enough room for both sets of sleeves.

Experiment with a sleeve cut out of inexpensive fabric, baste it into your jacket armhole and see if there is enough room for both sleeves. If not, you will have to increase the size of the sleeves as well as making the armhole of the jacket slightly larger to fit.

Perhaps you are a little self-conscious about this. It seems when everyone is wearing the same style, no one pays too much attention to anyone else. However, if you feel uncomfortable, by all means learn to change your patterns.

DEAR EUNICE,

Please tell us how to press the rayon-linens and the wash and wear cottons. I have several dresses made from these fabrics and have pressed them over and over, but the seams and darts still do not look like they should.

MRS. J. W. L

DEAR MRS. J. W. L.:

With every advantage, there is always a disadvantage, these new fabrics are no exception. Fortunately, we are in an era of the no press look so it actually doesn't matter as much as you might imagine. Your very expensive clothes have an unpressed look. This is partly due to the fabrics and partly to the fashions of today.

Press these fabrics on the wrong side with a fairly hot steam iron. In certain areas you might even dampen a press cloth and press over this with a hotter iron. However, the nature of the fabric will cause it to spring right back.

If you have underlined your garment, you may wish to loosely catch-stitch the open seams to the underlining only especially over bust areas where a smoother look is desired. If you are from the old school of the sharp press for everything, you will have to relearn techniques that will affect the new fabrics.

Americans Demand Gourmet Delicacies

By DEE WEDEMEYER

NEW YORK (AP) — If little Jack Horner had stuck his thumb into the National Fancy Food and Confection Show, he might have pulled out a frozen eel, a can of elephant meat or a vacuum-packed birthday cake.

If that didn't satisfy him, Jack could have sampled a full course meal from Senegalese soup to New Zealand lamb to pistachio nuts.

Jack wouldn't have been alone. More than 12,000 buyers crowded into the four-day show at the New York Coliseum this week.

Edward Sajous, secretary of the National Association for the Speciality Food Trade, said the crowd reflected a growing American demand for gourmet delicacies and specialty foods.

"Americans have discovered through travel that there are other sauces than catsup," he said. "They found out in Paris that bordelaise is a lot better than catsup."

Sajous also said the growth in family income and the advent of American military bases abroad contributed to the demand for fancy foods. Fads also play a role.

"If James Bond ate pate de foie three times a day in movies," said Sajous, "Then there would be a surge in pate de foie sales."

Traditionally, gourmet foods were imported but more and more American companies are entering the billion-dollar business, he said.

"Some 20 years ago, 95 per cent of the top gourmet foods were imported while about 5 per cent were domestic. Today you could say its about 25 to 40 per cent domestic."

When the first fancy-food show was held 14 years ago, 80 per cent of the foods shown were of foreign origin. At this show, only 45 per cent were foreign.

The booth receiving the most attention was run by Reese's Finer Foods, a firm featuring canned elephant meat.

A Reese spokesman said the company's entire stock of elephant meat came from one South African elephant which was transported to Chicago, slaughtered and canned.

In this election year, the 10½ oz. cans, which retail for $4.95, were big sellers in Miami Beach, Fla., scene of the GOP nominating convention.

Jo Anne is the sister of Mrs. James Temple and Fred, Susan and Sharon Angeloni. She was graduated from Novato High School and attended Santa Rosa Junior College. She is employed with the Pacific Telephone Company in San Francisco and is a junior volunteer at Novato General Hospital.

Donald is the son of Col. and Mrs. Joseph E. Ricco of Washington, D.C. and the brother of Tina Louise Ricco. He was graduated from Lane Technical High School in Chicago and attended Marshall University in Huntington, Va.

A Sept. 28 wedding is planned.

Sell Your City To Impress Visitors

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Observations on the American scene:

How does one say "welcome" to visitors from foreign lands?

In these days of the national "Visit the U.S.A." and "Discover America" programs, some of the answers come from the Society of American Travel Writers.

THIS GROUP, many of whose members have been guests in almost every country and almost every U.S. state, has summed things up in a handbill it's posting around New York City. Called how to "Be a Sidewalk Ambassador for New York City," its suggestions are just as applicable in any other city, town or village in the land.

—Inquire whether you can help him, when a stranger appears lost or hesitant.

—Take time to give him accurate and specific directions.

—Speak slowly and distinctly, but not loudly, when assisting a foreign visitor.

—Walk with him a block, or even more, to point out the way.

—Be enthusiastic and well-informed about New York's (or your city's) sight-seeing attractions.

—Be friendly. Be courteous. Be hospitable. He is your guest.

—Remember, at least one visitor's unforgettable memory of New York (or your own town) may be you.

AS ONE WHO'S collected roadside signs since the automobile became our way of life, I happily relay this group quoted in the Ford Times, a publication of the auto manufacturing company.

Sign on entering a small town: "Drive carefully. Don't insist on your rites."

Another, near a school read, "Approach a school the way you did as a child—slowly!"

And on a tow truck, "Call us at any hour—we're always on our tows."

San Diego To Be Home

Donene Draper, the daughter of Cmdr. and Mrs. Donald M. Draper of San Rafael, became the bride of Leo J. Rothove of San Diego Sunday in a late afternoon ceremony performed at Hamilton Air Force Base.

Mrs. William G. Rogers of San Diego was matron of honor with Mr. Rogers serving as best man. Richard Canney and Gordon Westrum, both of San Rafael, ushered.

A reception at the Officers' Club at Hamilton preceded a wedding trip to Lake Tahoe and Oregon. The couple will make their home in San Diego where the bridegroom is stationed with the Marine Corps.

Donene is a graduate of Abington Memorial Hospital in Abington, Pa. and has been employed as a registered nurse at Marin General Hospital the past two years. Her grandmother is Mrs. Nelle Leopold of San Rafael.

The bridegroom attended Christian Brothers College in St. Louis, Mo. He is the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Dennewals of that city.

Miss Baget To Study In Bordeaux, France

NANETTE BAGET

Nanette Baget, daughter of City Manager and Mrs. J. Julien Baget of Novato, has been chosen to participate in the "Junior Year Abroad" program in Bordeaux, France through the University of California.

Nanette will leave Novato Aug. 19 and will join other students in New York. They will leave on Aug. 20 on the M.S. Aurelia for the year of study. They will be on the ship nine days and dock at Le Havre.

Students participating in the program must speak French fluently and be able to adapt to new environment. The students will have a six-weeks intensive language program at Pau, France before entering the University of Bordeaux, as all courses will be taught in French.

Nanette, who is 20-years-old, has studied the past two years at the University of California at Davis, where she is majoring in political science and French. She will visit the United Nations building while in New York.

Nanette, the sister of Michele Baget, was also an exchange student in 1965 when she spent the summer in Spain.

Of particular interest to Nanette will be her stay in Pau, as her father's mother was born there.

Wash And Brush Hair For Health

NEW YORK (UPI)—Good scalp and hair hygiene dictates that hair should be shampooed as often as needed, according to a report in "Today's Health," publication of the American Medical Association.

Although once a week is recommended, polluted air might make more frequent washing necessary for hair health. Daily brushing to supplement the shampoo also helps. It keeps the hair and scalp clean by loosening and removing dust, grime, hair spray residue and dead cells.

Princess Anne Will Assume Public Duties

Born to a diamond diadem but usually seen with blonde hair flying, Britain's Princess Anne projects the informality of today's teen-ager, rather than the traditional formality of royalty.

Some of this may change when the Princess becomes 18 on Aug. 15. For with this birthday, Anne must begin to assume public duties.

She will be voted an allowance by Parliament — an annual "salary" which for an unmarried Princess is usually six thousand pounds ($14,400).

Anne also will have a lady-in-waiting, who will serve both as her secretary and as her official attendant at public functions.

When Queen Elizabeth II became 18, she received several clips and brooches, all set with diamonds from the family collection, plus a diamond necklace and matching bracelet once owned by Queen Victoria. She also received her famous "honeycomb watch." The delicate watch has a band of golden honeycomb mesh no wider than 3/8 of an inch. The baguette-shaped dial, no wider than the band, has a dainty diamond motif on either side.

The jewels which her mother received at 18 probably will be passed down to Anne — except for this favorite watch which the Queen still wears. Perhaps, however, now that Anne will have so many appointments to keep, she will be given a new diamond watch all her own.

Just how much of a change will take place in Anne remains to be seen. It does not seem possible that she will entirely change her open and friendly manner. As she will be seen in the future, amid the traditional pomp and circumstance, she very well may create her own youthful brand of diamond-brand royalty.

M. Lynn Guion Is Engaged To Wed Richard R. King

The engagement of M. Lynn Guion and Richard R. King is announced by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred P. Guion of San Rafael.

Lynn is the sister of Doug Guion of San Rafael, Greg of New Mexico and Judy Guion of New Britain, Conn. She was graduated from Trumbull High School in Connecticut and attended College of Marin.

Richard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrul L. King of Novato. He was graduated from Novato High School and attended Healds Business College in San Francisco. He is employed with United Ambulance Service in San Rafael.

The couple plan to be married in August, 1969.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD BRANDON

Ronald Brandon Weds Linda Nannizzi Aug. 3

The Sleepy Hollow Presbyterian Church was the setting Aug. 3 for the wedding of Linda Nannizzi of San Anselmo and Ronald Brandon of Fairfax. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Nannizzi.

Mrs. David Miller of San Rafael was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Barbara Stuckey of Stockton, Lisel Chubb of Lafayette, Mrs. Donald Payne of Merced and Joan Baron of San Francisco.

Frank Sutton of La Jolla was best man assisted by ushers David Miller and Steve Wechsler of San Rafael, Rick Frey, Jay Jones of Stockton, Thomas Nannizzi of San Anselmo, the bride's brother, and Tedd Brandon, the bridegroom's brother of Fairfax.

A wedding trip to the Sierra mountains followed a garden reception at the home of the bride's parents.

Linda is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and attended the University of the Pacific in Stockton.

The bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Tedd Brandon of Fairfax, was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and the University of the Pacific.

The couple will make their home in Augusta, Ga., where Ronald will continue his education.

Span Board Orders Bike Path Plan But Not So Sure About The Cash

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors yesterday ordered plans drawn so bicyclists can peddle across the west sidewalk on weekends — but left in doubt financing of the new facilities.

District engineer Robert E. Shields has estimated the cost of fencing, gates and paths at both ends of the bridge at $35,000 to $40,000, and several directors object to the cost.

Shields said he would need six to eight months to prepare plans, but that he would have a preliminary report on the plans in six to eight weeks.

Director Dan E. London of San Francisco questioned whether the expenditure would "contribute to our function of getting traffic over the bridge. I doubt anyone is commuting by bicycle," he said.

London suggested that the cost be met by federal or private funds, adding that "there might be a legal question of spending for such a limited recreational purpose."

NO LEGAL BARRIER

However, the district's attorney, Jerome B. White of San Francisco, assured directors that his "off the cuff" opinion was that there was no legal barrier. "It's a matter of a public obligation," said White.

Director John E. Dearman of San Francisco, whose security committee recommended the appropriation Thursday, noted that the district had "spent a lot on surveys and studies which a lot of people don't think is wise spending. If we continue to stall," he declared, "we'll make our public position worse."

The bridge board voted in May to allow bicycles after being prodded by Dearman, but then asked his committee to come up with a plan to accommodate bicycles "consistent with safety."

Bicyclists long have sought a continuous path from Lake Merced in San Francisco to Marin, and the bridge would be a link in such a path to Sausalito. Bicyclists now can only walk their bikes across the east sidewalk, which also is used by pedestrians.

HORSES TOO?

Director L. E. Castner of Sonoma County asked if provisions also would be made for horses, but his query was not answered.

Dearman dissented from the vote because it did not provide the appropriation. "We're kind of poking fun at the public to ask the public to subsidize this when we have the money to do it," he said.

Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors also:

MARIN BANK — Offered $250,000 in district reserves to the Bank of Marin in San Rafael for time deposits maturing July 1, 1969, if the bank will pay 5.875 per cent interest. The bank lost $100,000 in district funds June 1 when it did not meet the interest rate offered by other banks.

TRAFFIC — Received report from Gen. Mgr. Dale W. Luehring that traffic increased 5.15 per cent in July compared to the same month last year, for a daily average of 94,174 vehicles.

INSURANCE — Approved an additional $100,000 of multi-risk insurance on the bridge structure with Gulf Insurance Co., bringing total coverage to $46,339,000. It would cost an estimated $150 million to replace the structure, but the district cannot get more coverage, its directors have said.

ENGINEERS — Approved Shields' request to hire a mechanical-electrical project engineer at $16,000 a year and a maintenance engineer at $13,500 a year.

ONE-WAY TOLLS — Endorsed a request by the building and operating committee that the district's staff prepare a proposal to test one-way collection of tolls to speed traffic.

Actors are known as Thespians from the name of Thespis, a Greek poet of the sixth century B.C.

Span To Shut Two Lanes In Midday Task

Two lanes on the Golden Gate Bridge will be closed weekdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. for the next two months so workmen can replace expansion joints, district engineer Robert E. Shields said yesterday.

Work started Thursday on the $21,000 project, the first in which all joints are being replaced. The existing asphaltic tar joints are being blasted out and replaced with Neoprene joints, he said.

The new type of joints have been tested successfully by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District and are in use in seven states, Shields said, and are expected to reduce maintenance costs.

The lanes to be closed will vary, but a minimum of two lanes in each direction will be left clear for traffic, Shields said.

There are about 175 joints, he said, explaining they separate the concrete deck from steel stiffening trusses so the deck can move.

Knolls Density Before Plan Board

The Mill Valley Planning Commission will review a request for a density increase for the 73 acres on the Enchanted Knolls ridge from five to eight dwelling units per acre at its meeting at 8 p.m. Monday in city hall.

The planners will also hear an application for a minor subdivision by Harvey Wainwright for property on Monte Vista Avenue and by Peter Wells for property on Eugene Street at Throckmorton Avnue.

in MEADOWLAND
Just off Sir Francis Drake Boulevard near Fairfax

Won't you visit us at Meadowland? Meadowland is not just another nice place to live . . . it's a way of life—YOUR way of life. No other area of Marin offers so wide a selection in living opportunities. Here, in THE MEADOW HOUSE you have a choice of single and 2 story homes nestled around trees, scenic creek and acres of meadows. In Meadowland, only the flat and ridge areas are developed to perpetually protect the country atmosphere with 70 acres of Green Belt. All home sites are laid out so that no house is built behind another. The front of your home is situated on a quiet cul-de-sac—your back yard faces the hills and meadows or running creek.

In Meadowland you may find the privacy you've been seeking (you may buy up to one-half acre) . . . or the companionship of interesting neighbors in our new cluster arrangement . . . or both, through the use of a community recreation club.

Be among the first to enjoy the hill and tree framed locations of Marin's next expansion area . . . where you will enjoy growth without it ever intruding on you. Meadow Houses are a promising investment whether it is in your living happiness—or future financial gain. We are prepared to assist you in every way. Why not come out and talk with us.

- CABANA CLUB with swimming, sauna, recreational and social features

INVESTMENT OPPORTUNITY

Here's the story: we've just listed a tiny little house, nicely built but kind of run down, and quite a few years old. It really isn't worth too much, but it could be rented for $100 a month, more or less, or it would make a great hideaway for when you need a hideaway. There are fruit trees, and good sun, and a pleasant outlook. However, the little house is on a prime lot zoned for a duplex, and next door to it is another prime lot zoned the same way, which is included in the low price of only $16,950. Get the picture? Then come see it this weekend!

These lovely homes all have pools.

$25,500—Huge level lot with fruit trees and a space for a garden! Very nice 3 bedroom home in excellent condition! The pool is full size, yet there is plenty of roof for patio and BBQ. Eves. ph. 479-3884.

$31,975—Family fun in a beautiful country setting can be yours in this delightful 3-bedroom home. The pool is 15x30 and there is also a large fenced play area! A smart tiled entry greets your arrival and meaningful extras are the oversize family room and separate utility room. Eves. ph. 454-1131.

$34,950—Fantabulous pool — Stop sweltering in your back yard, come cool off in this really gorgeous 20x40 heated and filtered POOL, complete with POOL SWEEP. Attractively landscaped patio and fenced play area too! The home has 4 bedrooms and 2 baths, modern kitchen, dining ell and good size family room with indoor brick BBQ! Eves. ph. 461-5290.

$38,500—Cool off in the swimming pool of this immaculate 3 bedroom, 2 bath home, situated on a quiet cul-de-sac! The kids will have a ball, as will Dad, when he finds he can "cook out" all year around on the indoor BBQ located in the family room! Mom will appreciate the spic and span all-elec. kitchen and the convenient dining area and good size living room! A great family home and an excellent buy! Eves. ph. 456-6773.

$39,950—1.2 acres! A very private country estate with horse corral and swimming pool! Huge oaks shade the unique home with its lava rock fireplace in the living room and Swedish fireplace in the family room. An enticing Roman sunken tub displays itself in 1 of the 2 baths. The cooking and eating will become more pleasure in the stainless steel kitchen and the dining room! A marvelous home for a growing family! Eves. ph. 479-5187.

$51,500—Too many children to live in a shoe? Then move into this fabulous 5 bedroom custom built home! Set high on a hill above San Rafael! Breathtaking view from the 3 decks and most living areas! In addition to the huge living room and family room, this unique home has separate dining room, 3 fireplaces, convenient utility room, smart tile entry and Doughboy pool for the hot days ahead. Eves. ph. 461-5290.

$62,500—Ever dreamed of living in the lap of luxury? Then let your dream become a reality and treat yourself to this fabulous 4 bedroom, 2 bath home, in one of the most fashionable neighborhoods! A massive stone fireplace enhances the beauty of the spacious living room and every woman will love the ingenious kitchen, with its enormous walk-in pantry and utility room! Other comforts you'll love are a large family room, and a really inviting pool, surrounded by patio and easy care landscaped garden! GO ON — SPOIL YOURSELF! Eves. ph. 456-6773.

LUXURY HOME WITH POOL

An adult home with all the luxury, special features and extras found only in a very few homes. This is not an overly large home, only 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, family room with BBQ pit, living room with large fireplace, luxury kitchen with all the extras and large 2-car garage with plenty of storage. But the real value lies in its quality construction and immaculate condition, almost perfection. The ⅓ acre of level grounds and pool match the condition of the home. We could not estimate the value of its beautifully kept grounds and Oriental garden. The rare exotic plants and trees are irreplaceable. This is one of our finest exclusives. Only $56,950

Employee Group Wins Recognition At Air Bases

The Hamilton Air Force Base chapter of the National Association of Government Employees has been given the exclusive right to represent the civilian employees on the base and at the Mill Valley Air Force Station, according to Hamilton officials.

This recognition will be given to Local R 12-69 at a public meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Nave Lanes, Novato, according to Mrs. Catherine Morris, acting first vice president of the local.

Col. Charles L. Praul, base commander, determined that the union represented more than the required 50 per cent of the 1,225 civilian employees at Hamilton and Mill Valley, exclusive of managerial positions, and notified the union Tuesday that it was recognized as the bargaining agent.

Carmine Riviera, West Coast director and national vice president of the employees association, will present the official recognition documents to the local at the Tuesday meeting, Mrs. Morris said.

Personnel Board To Meet Monday

A special meeting of the Marin County Personel Commission will be held at 3 p.m. Monday in Room 413 of the Civic Center to draft a final grievance procedure for county employees.

The procedure is required in recent contracts drawn between the county and employee unions.

The regular meeting of the commission will follow the special meeting, and will be instead of the regular meeting scheduled Thursday.

GOP LEADER'S HIDEAWAY

The Bahia Hotel on Mission Bay near San Diego will be campaign and relaxation headquarters for GOP presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon and vice presidential candidate Spiro T. Agnew for about 10 days. The two, their families and staffs are scheduled to arrive in California late today. (See also stories on pages 1 and 20.) (AP Wirephoto)

Pentagon Unveils New Missile Dates

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The Defense Department lifted a screen of secrecy from the maiden test flights of the nation's two new long-range missiles today and said the rockets capable of carrying multiple warheads will be launched Thursday and Friday.

The Navy's new "Super Polaris" submarine-launched missile, the Poseidon, is to be fired at midday Thursday from a land pad at the Cape.

The Air Force's new Minuteman 3 "Instant ICBM" will be fired from an underground silo shortly after sunset the following day.

MANY WARHEADS

Both missiles are designed to carry the sophisticated new "space bus" multiple warhead assembly that will be able to shower up to 10 nuclear weapons on individual targets hundreds of miles apart.

Although the Air Force, serving as Defense Department spokesman here, declined to give any further details on the missions, it was believed that a test version of the new multiple warhead package would be flown on the initial Minuteman.

Former Defense Secretary Robert McNamara told Congress earlier this year that the multiple warheads to be carried by the new missiles will enhance the survivability of the nation's strategic missile forces and greatly enhance the number of weapons that can be loosed by 1972.

Not only did the Air Force remove the secrecy label from the firings next week, but it said it planned to permit news media to watch the shots from observation points little more than a mile away.

NAVY WEAPON

The Poseidon is designed to be eight times more effective than the Polaris A3 rocket, the latest of the Polaris missile versions and the rocket now carried by most of the Navy's 41 missile firing submarines.

Like the Polaris, the Poseidon is a two-stage solid propellant rocket. It is 34 feet long and six feet in diameter—three feet longer and 1½ feet wider than the A3. It also is twice as heavy as the Polaris.

The Poseidon's ability to lift double the payload of the newest Polaris gives it the ability to carry the new multiple warhead packages. Its range will be about the same as the Polaris A3, about 2,900 miles.

The Minuteman 3 is the fourth model in the family of Minuteman intercontinental ballistic missiles that dates to the birth of the Minuteman 1 nine years ago. All have three stages and are capable of being fired with only 32 seconds' notice.

The Minuteman 3's new capability is packed in a new and mightier third stage, with better guidance equipment and the new multiple warhead section.

Auto Looted

Auto stereophonic equipment valued at $50 was stolen from a locked vehicle belonging to Daniel Tobin of 120 Grove Street, San Rafael, Thursday night, police said. Officers said a wire was used to open the passenger's door.

Ex-Demo Becomes GOP Choice As Vice Presidential Candidate

INTO POLITICS

It was when he returned home in 1946 that he switched his registration from Democrat to Republican. But his father clung to the Democratic party until the younger Agnew was elected executive of populous Baltimore County on the Republican ticket in 1962.

Discharged from service in 1946, Agnew returned to law school and earned his degree a year later.

As his practice grew, he devoted more and more time to civic activities and his first move into politics came as president of Loch Raven Community Council, a suburban improvement association, when he fought to obtain open spaces legislation in Baltimore County. In 1957, he was appointed minority member of the county's board of zoning appeals and later became its chairman. He was ousted in 1961, however, by the Democratic controlled county council, a move that prompted him to run for county executive the following year.

He won despite a Democratic registration edge of nearly 4 to 1 and under his administration, the county became the first in the country to enact a public accommodations law.

OPEN HOUSING

It was his stand in favor of open housing that helped him to victory over George P. Mahoney in the state's gubernatorial race in 1966. Mahoney concentrated on capturing white backlash votes with his slogan "Your home is your castle, protect it."

Civil disturbances during the past two years have altered Agnew's stance on civil rights, although the governor insists that it is not he who has changed.

"I haven't changed," he told reporters recently. "I'm standing still, it's just that others are moving more to the left."

Although the tone changed gradually, it crystallized clearly at a meeting the governor called with Negro leaders in Baltimore shortly after that city, like others across the country, had been rocked by riots following the assassination of the Rev. Martin Luther King.

ACCUSED OF FEAR

He charged that they did not speak out against what he termed Negro racists because they were afraid.

"You were intimidated by veiled threats: you were stung by insinuations that you were Mr. Charlie's Boy, by epithets like 'Uncle Tom,'" he said.

"Somewhere the objectives of the civil rights movement have been obscured in a surge of emotional oversimplification. Somewhere the goal of equal opportunity has been replaced by the goal of instantaneous economic equality," he said.

Half of the Negro leaders angrily stomped from the meeting, but the governor's switch to a more hard-line position continued.

Only a week before, Agnew angrily refused to meet with leaders of some 250 students from predominantly Negro Bowie State College who were holding a sit-in at the State House to dramatize their demands for campus improvements, and instead ordered all of them arrested.

SHOOT LOOTERS

And just a week ago, at his last news conference before he left for Miami, the governor said flatly that police officers should not hesitate to shoot looters during riots when they failed to heed commands to halt.

"If the general public gets used to the idea that as long as you can out-leg a police officer you can get away scot free, the whole system of law and order will break down," he said.

A long-time backer of Gov. Nelson Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination, Agnew obviously became disenchanted with the New York governor's on-again, off-again antics, and was privately more than a little miffed when Rockefeller stated flatly in March that he would not accept the presidential nomination of his party.

"I still think Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is the best candidate the Republican party can offer to the electorate in November," he told a news conference two weeks later, "but having someone who is not willing to become a candidate be the best candidate is no way to elect anybody."

And although the governor insisted until his public announcement for Nixon Monday that he still had not made up his mind, it was known privately that Nixon had suggested to him that he deliver the nominating speech when the former vice president dined with Agnew and state party leaders during Nixon's recent visit to Maryland three weeks ago.

Hippie Leader Free On Bail

Henry J. Sudduth IV, 35, of Gate 5 Road, Sausalito, once called leader of Marin hippies and known by the nickname Buddha, has been released from Marin County Jail on $315 bail.

Sudduth was arrested by Sausalito police Thursday on a warrant issued by Fairfax police which says he passed three bad checks at the Fairfax Market totaling $67 on June 2, 3, and 5 last year.

He is scheduled to be arraigned in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Los Angeles Coroner Hit On Murders

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Dr. Thomas T. Noguchi, the Japanese born coroner who conducted the autopsy of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, today was under attack by two prominent medical schools.

County Administrative Officer L. S. Hollinger yesterday issued a 24-point proposal to reorganize Noguchi's office.

It was designed to meet criticisms by officials of the medical schools of the University of Southern California and UCLA, which recently completed a lengthy investigation of the coroner's office.

'MURDERS MISSED'

Dr. George Lundberg, toxicologist for the USC School of Medicine, charged that "perhaps one half of the murders committed in Los Angeles are being missed because of deficiencies in the coroner's office."

The medical schools' criticisms involved the general operations of the office, and did not concern the Kennedy case.

Their report attacked the practice of using hospital physicians not trained as criminal pathologists to perform about 35 per cent of the department's autopsies. The medical school men charged the autopsies were being done without supervision.

Hollinger was critical of the record-keeping practices in Noguchi's offices, and said he had detected cases of insubordination in the 97-member staff.

NAMING OPPOSED

Noguchi, a pathologist for the coroner's office, was made its chief on a provisional basis following the departure of his predecessor earlier this year. Medical school spokesmen opposed the appointment.

Following the assassination of Kennedy he assembled a team of three Southern California pathologists to perform the autopsy. Three other military pathologists came from Washington to work with them.

County supervisors, satisfied with Noguchi's conduct of the Kennedy case, made his appointment permanent shortly afterward.

The graduate of a Japanese medical school, Noguchi trained as a pathologist in the United States.

Overfishing Cuts Catching Rate

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Falling rates of catch show that trawling vessels of about 15 countries are overfishing preferred species in waters off northwest Africa, the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) reports. FAO says tuna stocks in the Indian Ocean and possibly the western Pacific also are in need of international management on an agreed basis.

WANTED — Gordon Dale Erwin, who has been on the Federal Bureau of Investigation's "Ten Most Wanted" list since April of 1967, is shown here in a recent photograph, issued this week by the FBI. Erwin, 41, escaped from the State Prison of Southern Michigan in 1965 where he was serving a 60-year sentence for armed robbery. He is described as six feet tall, weighing 200 pounds.

Car Overturns; Youths Injured

Three San Rafael youths were injured yesterday when their car overturned on a dirt road near Peacock Gap just north of Biscayne Drive at 4:40 p.m., police said today.

Passengers Richard Sculley, 16, and Daniel Sculley, 13, both of 27 Racquet Club Drive, were taken to Marin General Hospital, where the younger boy was admitted with a concussion. He was reported in satisfactory condition today. The older Sculley was treated for cuts and scrapes.

The driver of the car, Gary Beeman of 139 Tamal Vista Way, was also admitted to the hospital. He was listed in good condition this morning with a fractured pelvis.

Civil Liberties Union Defends On Abortions

Two of the nine obstetricians accused of performing therapeutic abortions on women who contracted German measles early in pregnancy will be defended by the American Civil Liberties Union.

The two physicians, Dr. Allan T. Moss of Mill Valley, and Dr. Ronald Smith, will be represented by an ACLU voluntary attorney because the group believes important constitutional issues are involved in the charges by the state Board of Medical Examiners.

Dr. Moss is scheduled for a hearing before the board on Thursday and Dr. Smith on Oct. 14. The case of another Marin obstetrician, Dr. Gregory Smith of Kentfield, will be heard Sept. 16.

The board found two other physicians guilty of performing the abortions and suspended their licenses for 90 days. But a Superior Court judge last week nullified the suspension of Dr. J. Paul Shivley's license without comment.

Hit-Run Crash North Of Novato

A 31-year-old Albany man suffered a severe scalp cut early today in a hit-and-run auto accident north of Novato on Highway 101.

Delmar A. Azbill was treated at Petaluma General Hospital after his car was struck from the rear by a speeding pickup truck while northbound near the Sonoma County line shortly after midnight, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Witnesses said Azbill was attempting to get out of the way of the approaching vehicle when the accident occurred.

Overlubrication Bad For Car Door Locks

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Over-lubrication can be bad for car door locks, says the California State Automobile Association.

Some manufacturers treat the lock cylinders with a special wax coating to prevent rapid deterioration due to moisture. Excess oil may wash away the wax coating, thereby reducing its effectiveness.

ONE BURGLAR WHO ISN'T A DIRTY GUY

A man who may well be the cleanest burglar in Marin is on the loose today after terrifying a 15-year-old babysitter and allegedly threatening to shoot her boy friend Thursday night.

It was a telltale bathtub ring that convinced San Rafael police that someone indeed had entered the home of Edwin T. Caldwell at 72 De La Guerra Drive, apparently for the sole purpose of taking a bath.

Katheryne McCormic of 667 Knocknaboul Way, San Rafael, told police she was babysitting at the Caldwell home shortly after 11 p.m. when she thought she heard water running in the bathroom. She said she went to investigate after the sounds repeated a few minutes later and found the bathtub full of water.

She said she became frightened and called her boy friend, Kenneth McLean of 537 Montecillo Road, San Rafael, who told police he flushed a man from the bushes at the side of the house.

McLean said the man, whom he described as in his late 20's and about six feet tall, threatened to shoot him if the youth did not stop chasing him. It was then that the police were called.

Officers responded to the home and found evidence that someone had entered through an outside entrance to the bathroom. Police found a wet towel and a slightly soiled bathtub filled with water. Nothing was missing from the home, officers said.

Conrad To Head Film Committee

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Author Barnaby Conrad will head the selection committee for the twelfth annual San Francisco International Film Festival, it was announced today.

Other members of the selection committee, named by Chairman Raymond Suyfy, are Niven Busch, Ernest Callenbach, Herbert Gold, Marshall Naify, Claude Jarman Jr., Albert Johnson and Norman K. Dorn.

The festival, oldest in the nation, will be held Oct. 24—Nov. 2. Sixteen major films will be shown on a noncompetitive basis in addition to six "craft of the cinema" restrospectives.

Marichal Is Stopped Again

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — An 0-for-5 hitter and a batter who popped up to the infield with two out in the ninth inning deprived the Giants' Juan Marichal of his 21st victory.

That unlikely combination helped New York score three times in the ninth for a 5-4 win last night over Marichal — the second career triumph for the Mets over the San Francisco right-hander after 21 losses.

Pinch-batter Ron Swoboda opened the ninth with a single and Bud Harrelson, followed suit. After pinch-batter Art Shamsky struck out, Tommy Agee belted a run-scoring single.

Larry Stahl, hitless in four previous trips, forced Agee at second. Cleon Jones then skied a high pop up near the pitchers' mound. The Giants' infield converged on the ball, but third baseman Jim Davenport dropped it for an error.

Harrelson raced home from third with the tying run and Stahl, who broke for second when Marichal took a windup, made it all the way from first with the winning run.

"It wasn't so hard," shrugged Stahl. "I had second base stolen, so I kept going. As I rounded third I heard Eddie (coach Yost) yelling for me to go for the plate."

"The pitch was up and in," explained Jones. "I was angry because I guessed right and I still popped it up. But I guess everything turned out all right."

The Mets were jubilant over the victory, especially since Marichal defeated them with a 16-hitter earlier this season. "He's been off the hook against us so many times, he had it coming," said one New York player.

A mild beanball battle spiced the opener of the five-game series, adding interest to back-to-back doubleheaders today and Sunday. Marichal struck Harrelson in the fourth and Agee in the fifth after bunt attempts went awry.

Mets' starter Dick Selma hit Marichal with a pitch in the sixth inning, but the right-hander insisted it wasn't intentional.

Howard Gains Split

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Frank Howard doesn't beat you with his bat, beware of his glove and his arm.

The Oakland Athletics defeated Howard and the Washington Senators, 4-2, with a three-run ninth inning yesterday, then lost the nightcap 3-2 to Ken McMullen's 15th home run — and Howard's heroics.

Today, the A's sent Lew Krausse, 7-8, against the Senators and Joe Coleman, 8-12 in a day game.

The A's held Howard, who has hit 32 homers this season and is the American League's sixth best batter with .281, to one hit in eight times at bat in the twin bill. But he scored the tying run in the sixth inning of the second game after Campy Campaneris erred on his grounder.

That sent the battle into extra innings. In the 10th, Howard made a perfect peg to the plate to hold A's catcher Jim Pagliaroni at third with what could have been the go-ahead run.

Then, with two A's on base and two out, Howard raced deep to haul in Dick Green's liner to end their hopes.

McMullen's homer in the Senators' 10th ended it.

Defensive stardom is a new role for husky Howard.

The A's scored both their runs in the fourth on Danny Cater's smash after Rick Monday's single, Sal Bando's forceout, Reggie Jackson's single and an error put A's on second and third.

Green, who was robbed of a tie-breaking extra base hit by Howard in the second game, won the first with a three-run, ninth inning home run.

Monday singled off pitcher Dennis Higgins' forearm. Higgins then walked pinch hitter Jackson and Green blasted his first home run this season.

Higgins said the blow on the forearm did not cause him to walk Jackson.

Campaneris got 5 hits in 5 tries in the opener — the first Oakland player to do so. He had a triple, double and three singles and stole two bases. He was 1 for 5 in the nightcap.

Wanted, Dead Or Alive: Pirate Roberto Clemente

Roberto Walker Clemente, baseball's walking wounded, is such a practicing hypochrondriac that when a Pittsburgh manager once put a lineup card on the dugout wall, a teammate pencilled in at the cleanup spot "The Late Roberto Clemente."

A rival watching him go 4-for-4 one night sighed and allowed, "Think what he would do if he were alive."

Roberto perpetually has one foot in the bucket and the other in the grave. He has more ailments than the Reader's Digest. When he plays, you don't need a scorecard, you need a fever chart. He's the only guy in the history of the game to catch malaria in New York in the winter. His teammates swear he could get sunstroke in the Arctic Circle. His vertebrae sound like castanets.

He's got a body so chunky hard it looks as if it were mined, not born. He's got better teeth than a shark. His eyes are so good he can see the canals on Mars. On a cloudy night.

Stand In The Draft, Please

It is not surprising the Pirates are loathe to put him on the critical list to say nothing of the disabled list. He batted so high, the Pirates took out a policy against his every being taken down well. They encouraged him to stand in drafts. They did everything but stash roller skates on the top step of his home or send him into typhoid epidemics.

Naturally, Pittsburgh was overjoyed when Roberto showed up at spring training this year complaining of a fall off his patio railing (faulty carpentry made it come loose when he tried to vault over it and it tumbled him down a cliff and onto a rock). They figured if Roberto had a fractured skull, they might begin printing World Series tickets. Instead of calling a doctor, they called a caterer. The situation called for a party.

It wasn't long before they found out this was one time something was clinically wrong. You didn't need a stethoscope or a spatula, all you needed was a pencil. They didn't need a diagnostician, but a statistician. Roberto's pulse rate was fine. It was his batting average that had leukemia. He had a virus in his swing.

Should Have Been Playing

It was like Paderewski stumbling around on the keys, Heifetz getting catcalls out of his violin. Roberto Clemente hitting .260 was like Van Gogh doing sidewalk portraits.

Roberto explodes when asked about it. His feeling is, for all the exposure his accident, which occurred in February, got, he might as well have dropped a note in a bottle in the Indian Ocean marked "To Whom It May Concern."

"Listen," he seethed in the dugout the other night. "I shouldn't even be playing. I showed up at spring training and I told the ball club about my accident. I said my shoulder had been damaged and the ballclub said 'Sh,h,h, don't talk so loud. Somebody might hear you. Now, don't tell anybody about this.' They said, 'I don't want to know about it.' Well, I tell you, it hurts me to hit a ball, it hurts me to swing a bat and, when I know it is going to hurt, it bothers me

GABRIEL BLOWS HIS COOL — Los Angeles Quarterback Roman Gabriel loses control of the situation as the ball squirts from his hands during NFL exhibition game against the Cleveland Browns, won by Rams, 23-31. (UPI Telephoto).

One, Two, Rams Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "That comeback might be the spark that could take us on to the championship," declared Los Angeles Rams Coach George Allen after his club reversed the tables so fast it left them spinning.

With five minutes to go last night, the Rams trailed the Cleveland Browns 21-7 in their National Football League exhibition. For the first 36 minutes in fact, Los Angeles hadn't made a first down.

Final score: Los Angeles 23, Cleveland 21, preserving of the Rams' pre-season game winning streak at 10 dating back to 1966.

The final two decisive points came with 52 seconds left as Dave Pivec burst through from a nine-man line and blocked an attempted punt by rookie Don Cockroft out of the end zone for a safety.

Young Jim Hart clicked on touchdown passes of 7 yards to Bobby Joe Conrad and 33 yards to Jackie Smith—both in the second quarter—and led the Cardinals to a 24-7 victory over Pittsburgh at St. Louis in the only other Friday night game.

It was the opener for both the Cardinals and Steelers.

Remember 1967 when the Rams beat Green Bay 27-24 with a final minute touchdown following a blocked punt? This time the play went much the same before the crowd of 64,020 at the Coliseum.

Shortly before, the Rams had scored touchdowns on passes by Roman Gabriel of 16 yards to Pat Studstill and 33 to Mike Dennis, the latter following a pass interception by Ed Meador.

"That was the turning point," commented Allen.

Blanton Collier of the Browns said, "You can't give up the ball like we did and expect to win."

Cleveland grabbed a 14-0 lead on Bill Nelsen's 11-yard pass to Eppie Barney late in the second quarter and rookie Charlie Leigh's 94-yard return of the second half kickoff.

Los Angeles battled back to score on a four-yard pass from Gabriel to Jeff Jordan but it appeared the game was out of reach when Frank Ryan hit Gary Collins on a 4-yard scoring pass as the fourth period opened.

The Rams, the 1967 winners in the Coastal Division, surged back to catch and pass the defending Century Division kingpins.

Seven games are scheduled tonight, including two more of those NFL-AFL affairs. Both are on NFL home grounds and the National needs to win both to even the record, now 3-1 for the AFL.

Boston, of the AFL, which rarely wins in exhibitions, will start new quarterback Mike Taliaferro at New Orleans.

Billy Kilmer, who passed for two touchdowns in the NFL Saints' loss to Los Angeles last week, will be the quarterback for three quarters, Coach Tom Fears said.

Kansas City of the AFL was impressive in a 38-14 romp over expansion team Cincinnati last week, but faces much tougher opposition in the rugged Vikings at Minnesota.

The other games, all at night, have Atlanta vs. Washington at Tampa, Fla., Baltimore vs. Chicago at Birmingham, Ala., and New York at Green Bay, all in the NFL, and Cincinnati at Denver and San Diego at Oakland in the AFL.

Tommorow's schedule includes the Detroit at Philadelphia nationally televised game (CBS-TV) that was rescheduled from Mexico City.

The others are Dallas at San Francisco and Miami vs. Buffalo at Rochester, N.Y.

Amateur Campbell Decides To Stick Around With Lead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — All Bill Campbell wanted to do was play two rounds of golf on the fabled Firestone Country Club course.

"I had my bag packed and was all set to go home," the foxy West Virginia amateur golfer said yesterday after he scorched the rugged 7,180-yard Firestone layout with a 3-under-par 67.

"I guess I'll have to stay awhile," the former U.S. Amateur champion said with no apparent sign of disappointment.

"I'm playing for fun. There's no strain on me."

But some of the pros shooting for the $25,000 first prize in the $125,000 American Golf Classic weren't amused by Campbell's performance.

The 45-year-old Huntington insurance man boasted a 36-hole score of 137 and carried a one-stroke lead into today's third round.

SANDERS WAS LAST

Doug Sanders, now a successful professional, was the last amateur to win a pro tournament. Sanders scored in the Canadian Open in 1956.

Campbell's round was even more remarkable because he had never seen the course until Thursday when he shot even par 70.

"I really came here to tune up for my 25th National Amateur later this month in Columbus," Campbell said. "This is a superb course and I got a few tips from an old friend—Sam Snead."

Campbell needed only 25 putts Friday and has had only 51 in the first two rounds. He sank putts of 8, 10, 40 and 20 feet for four birdies and faltered only on No. 8 when he put his second shot in a bunker for a bogey.

HOT PURSUIT

In hot pursuit of the leader were Canadian George Knudson and Lee Elder, the 1963 Negro Golfer of the Year. Knudson shot a 68 and Elder a 70.

In four-way tie at 139 were the ever-menacing Jack Nicklaus, who carded a 69; Howie Johnson, one of three golfers who posted a 71, and Bob Lunn, who had a 67; Johnny Pott, who registered a 72.

At even par 140 were first round leader John Schlee, who soared to a 75 after a record-equaling 65 on Thursday; Bob Funseth, 67; Art Wall, 72; England's Tony Jacklin, 69; Harold Henning of South Africa, 69, and defending titlist Arnold Palmer, who saved his second straight 70 by rolling in a 25-foot birdie putt on the final hole.

Eleven others were still in contention only four back at 141, including leading money winner Tom Weiskopf, who shot a 72; Masters champion Bob Goalby, who scored a 71, and 1965 Classic winner Al Geiberger, who rang up a 69.

PGA king Julius Boros was in at 142 and U.S. Open victor Lee Trevino at 143.

A field of 74 survived the 36-hole cut by scoring 147 or better for final rounds today and Sunday.

DiMaggio Champions Roll On

About this game between the Marin Joe DiMaggio League All-Stars and league champion Annex Motors, alias Novato, at chilly Albert Field last night.

The All-Stars did not exactly brighten up the night with their smiling faces or booming bats, nor did their somewhat suspect glovework scatter any sparkle around the field.

Annex Motors, showing they were champions right to the bitter, knuckle-freezing end, blasted, well, erased the All-Stars convincingly and somewhat early, 11-0.

It was a beautiful night for young Glenn Holsclaw, who went seven no-hit innings for the winners, before giving up a drag-bunt single to scrappy Gary Trono in the eighth.

That was the only hit off Annex pitching as Holsclaw and Tom Wickert, for an inning, had their motors humming.

Rick Mantooth started, rolled right into the disastrous third inning, gave way to Mark Satterle, who was greeted by a double and chipped in with a couple of misplays, Satterle gave way to youngish Roger Smith, only a junior coming up, who didn't let anybody cross the plate, one way or another.

Annex Motors put it away in an agonizingly slow third inning, which saw eight runs cross the plate and was highlighted by three errors, three walks, at hit batsman and Tom Zechlin's booming triple into the darkness of deep centerfield.

A Winning 225 Eyed For Meet

KIAMESHA LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A score of 225 was forecast for the winner of the $28,500 Concord Ladies Open Golf Tournament which started today.

The prediction was made by Ladies Professional Golf Association officials following a pro-amateur event yesterday.

Ed Furgol, the Concord Hotel's resident pro, set a par of 77 for the reduced 6,954-yard Concord course to be tested by 45 touring pros and four amateurs.

That means the winner would have to clip six strokes from par on the three rounds of the 54-hole event that ends Monday.

Waddell Leading

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — The Army's Tom Waddell went into today's U.S. Olympic qualifying decathlon meet at Mt. San Antonio College with a 3,987-point lead after five events.

Gibson Hurls Shutouts Because He's Forced To

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hard times for the St. Louis Cardinals are the shutouts Bob Gibson pitches because he has to. Happiness for the New York Mets is a high pop fly in Candlestick Park.

The Cardinals scored just one run for the second game in a row last night, but Gibson made it stand up for a 1-0 victory over Atlanta that ran his winning streak to 13 games and broke a club shutout mark.

Roger Maris, whose 11th inning double gave the National League leaders a 1-0 nod over Cincinnati Thursday night, drove in the only run again with a third inning single.

The Mets beat San Francisco's Juan Marichal, 5-4, when third baseman Jim Davenport dropped Cleon Jones' two-out pop in the ninth as the tying and winning runs scored.

It was only the Mets' second victory over Marichal in 22 lifetime decisions.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati whipped the Chicago Cubs 7-3; Houston edged Pittsburgh 2-1 on Jim Wynn's two-run double in the ninth and Ricardo Joseph drove in all the Philadelphia runs in a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles.

Gibson, 16-5, scattered four hits on the way to his ninth shutout of the year and a career total of 34, one more than the old St. Louis mark held by Bill Doak.

Lou Brock ripped a third inning single off Braves knuckleballer Phil Niekro, stole second and raced home on Maris' single to right, giving the Cards a three-game winning string and a 15-game bulge over runner-up Chicago.

"We still aren't scoring any runs, but one was enough this time," said St. Louis pilot Red Schoendienst. "We're going to get lucky one of these days."

Pete Rose's single triggered a five-run Cincinnati rally in the third inning that overcame Chicago's 2-1 lead and carried the Reds past the Cubs. Mack Jones' single, a double by Lee May, Johnny Bench's hit, a single by Tony Perez and a sacrifice fly by Tommy Helms sent the runs across.

A walk and Doug Rader's single set the stage for Wynn with two out in the ninth at Houston. His two-base hit off Elroy Face wiped out a 1-0 Pittsburgh lead buit on Roberto Clemente's triple and Donn Clendenon's infield hit in the eighth.

Joseph smacked his second homer of the season in the fifth inning and then brought the Phillies from behind with a two-run single in the seventh. Gary Wagner saved the victory in relief of Chris Short, who was struck on the left forearm by a pitch in the eighth and forced to bow out.

Ken Boyer's first inning homer accounted for both Dodger runs.

Nicklaus-Palmer Golf Handicap Match Set

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer will play a handicap match here Monday against Byron Nelson and Jug McSpaden, the "gold dust twins" of golf 25 years ago.

The senior partners will get a 50-yard handicap on each hole —one yard for each year's difference in their ages. McSpaden is 60, Nelson 56 for a total of 116. Palmer is 38 and Nicklaus 28 for a total of 66.

Lightweight Title Bout On For Ramos

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A doctor says Mando Ramos, who blacked out at a drive-in restaurant Thursday, will be able to box for the world lightweight title on Sept. 14.

Ramos signed for the title fight against Carlos Teo Cruz before his blackout. A spokesman blamed low sugar content in the fighter's blood.

First Golf Victory For Trial Lawyer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Dick Runkle, a 40-year-old civil trial lawyer from Los Angeles neared what he hoped would be his first major amateur golf title today in the Pacific Coast Golf Tournament.

The only championships claimed by the one-time UCLA golfer after 20 years of golfing are seven Los Angeles County Club titles. He has been runner-up for the California amateur crown twice, losing to Verne Calisson in 1959 and to Dr. Paul Travis in 1963.

A hot putter was the key yesterday as Runkle carded a 71, one under par, at Pebble Beach for a 54-hole total of 219 that put him two shots in front of the field.

SECOND AT 70

John Schroeder, 22-year-old son of former tennis star Ted Schroeder, moved into second place on the strength of a two under par 70, low round of the tournament to date. A recent graduate of University of Michigan, Schroeder carried a 221 total into today's final round.

Third place was held by Rod Curl, an unsung 25-year-old construction worker from Redding, who bogeyed the last two holes for a 75 and a 222 score. Dr. Ed Updegraff, the defending champion from Tucson, Ariz., was fourth with a 225 total after shooting a 74 Friday.

PRESSURE

Ed Morris, 20-year-old San Jose City College player who was the 36-hole leader with an even par 144, bowed under the pressure and ballooned to an 83, shooting a 44 on the back nine which included four bogeys and two double bogeys. He didn't score a single birdie on his card Friday.

Although the field for the Pacific Coast Amateur boasts the leading amateur golfers of the seven western states, only 32 of the 61 players remaining in competition managed to break 80 on Friday.

Quarry Slated For Body Cast

SUN VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Jerry Quarry, heavyweight boxing contender from Bellflower, Calif., enters the hospital tomorrow to be fitted with a body cast which he must wear for eight to 10 weeks.

A hospital spokesman said the cast will be used to treat a cracked vertebra.

Quarry was injured in a friendly tussle with his brother before he lost a fight to Jimmy Ellis for the World Boxing Association heavyweight title in Oakland on April 27.

The fracture was discovered last Tuesday when Quarry was x-rayed.

Quarry said the injury didn't bother him during the fight "but it probably hampered my movement a little."

Olympic Altitude Test Meet

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — Effects of high altitude training on track and field athletes will be shown near sea level this evening when the United State's men's squad holds a pre-Olympic meet at Mt. San Antonio College.

In addition, and probably more important, Olympic officials will see how miler Jim Ryun and several others have rounded into shape. Ailments forced them to miss Olympic trials in June.

After that meet in Los Angeles, Athletes considered capable of making the United States team were invited to work at South Lake Tahoe, where the altitude of more than 7,000 feet approaches that of the Mexico City Olympic Games site.

FINE SHAPE

Coach Bill Bowerman of Oregon, who has been in charge of the conditioning program, terms the big squad in fine shape. With this in mind, the races will have timers at both yardage and metric distances.

So Ryun, running the mile, will be timed at 1,500 meters — about 120 yards less. Also timed will be the 400 meters and 440 yards and the 800 and 880.

TOP STARS RACE

Charlie Greene, Jim Hines and Ronnie Ray Smith, the three sprinters who bettered the world record at 100 meters with a 9.9 clockings at Sacramento, all will race the century. Greene will be in one heat, however, and Hines and Smith in the other.

The two-mile relay could easily bring a world record, bettering the 7:16 by a Russian quartet of half-milers in 1966.

Plunge To Dismay Down Below

The Pirates, of course, were plunged in dismay — to say nothing of the second division. Their chronic outpatient who had batted .351, .339, .329 and .357 with malaria, sacroiliac, insomnia, dyspepsia and misplaced vertebra. But the depressing thing was, he was now to be believed. Instead of asking to spend the winter working among the lepers, they could now make reservations at the Mayo Clinic. And, if he said he was A) hurt or B) sick, they still wouldn't send a doctor. They would send a pitcher. "Throw him four curve balls," they would say. "If he only hits one of them, rush him to a hospital."

McNally Streaks, John Gets One

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

This is a tale of two pitchers and the different roads they've travelled since baseball paused for its annual All Star game a month ago.

Baltimore's Dave McNally, passed up for the stars with a mediocre 8-8 record, hasn't lost since. The Orioles' left-hander won his seventh straight last night, shutting out California 3-0.

Chicago's Tommy John, picked for the squad with a glittering 7-0 mark for the dismal White Sox, spent the next month looking for his eighth victory. He finally found it last night, beating Cleveland 1-0 with late-inning help from Bobby Locker and Hoyt Wilhelm.

In other American League games, Minnesota shaded New York 4-3 in 11 innings, Boston dropped Detroit 5-3 and Oakland split a doubleheader with Washington, winning 4-2 before losing 3-2 in 10 innings.

McNally pitched a four-hitter against the Angels and protected a 1-0 edge until the seventh when Don Buford tagged a two-run homer.

The shutout, McNally's fourth of the season, gave the Orioles their fourth straight victory and 10th in the last 12 games. And it cut Baltimore's deficit to 5½ games in the American League race.

First place Detroit had its five-game winning streak shattered by Boston's Joe Foy, who lined a grand slam home run in the eighth inning.

Homers by Dick Tracewski and Mickey Stanley—Detroit's only hits over the first seven innings—had given the Tigers a 2-1 edge going into the eighth. But Tiger starter Pat Dobson got into trouble when he walked Dalton Jones and Carl Yastrzemski followed with a double.

John Wyatt, ex-Red Sox relief ace, took over for Dobson and got Ken Harrelson on an infield out before walking Reggie Smith intentionally, loading the bases. Foy promptly unloaded them with his sixth homer.

Gates Brown tagged a pinch homer for the Tigers in the eighth.

John, now 8-5, scored the only run of the Chicago game when he singled with two out in the fifth against Cleveland's Steve Hargan, raced to second on Jose Cardenal's error and came in on Walt Williams' double.

The left-hander shut the Indians out until the eighth when he hit pinch hitter Lee Maye and Cardenal followed with a single. Locker came out of the bullpen and retired the next three batters.

In the ninth, Tommy Harper singled and stole second with two out. With the count 1-1 on Russ Snyder, Wilhelm relieved. The veteran walked Snyder but got the next batter to nail down the victory.

John Roseboro beat New York with a leadoff homer in the 11th inning for Minnesota. The Twins had tied the score in the ninth against Lindy McDaniel on a walk, Ron Clark's single and an infield out.

Today is Sat. Aug. 10, the 223rd day of 1968 with 143 to follow.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning star is Saturn. The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1776 a committee of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson suggested the U. S. adopt "E Pluribus Unum" as the motto for its great seal.

In 1833 Chicago, with a population of about 200, was incorporated.

In 1943 President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill met at Quebec for the sixth conference on World War II.

In 1965 a Titan missile site explosion at Searoy, Ark., killed 53 persons.

A thought for the day: Novelist Dorothy Fisher said, "A mother is not a person to lean on, but a person to make leaning unnecessary."

TIME AND TIDE

Department of Commerce, United States Coast Geodetic Survey. Times and heights of tides at San Francisco (Golden Gate):

The column of heights gives the elevation in feet of each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey chart soundings. The depths are always additive to the chart depths unless preceded by a minus sign (-), when the numbers are subtracted from the depth given in the chart. Light-face type indicates a.m. times; bold-face type indicates p.m. times.

U.S. Women's Team Too Slow, Loses To Swedish Decisiveness

The United States women's team was expected to win the gold medal in the recent Bridge Olympics, but they had to be satisfied with bronze since they finsished behind Sweden and South Africa.

One reason the American girls lost their match to Sweden may be seen in today's hand.

Opening lead — ♠ Q

Mrs. Eva Martenson led the queen of spades from the West hand, and Mrs. Karin Eriksson signaled encouragement by playing the seven.

Despite the signal, it was decidedly unwise for the American declarer to refuse the first trick.

West continued with the five of spaces, and East played the king.

South refused the trick again, and this time she was punished for making the wrong play.

East came to the perfectly reasonable conclusion that there was little further nourishment in the spades.

She switched to the queen of clubs, and South had to try the heart finesse to have any chance for the contract. The heart finesse lost, and South was down two.

WISER DECLARER

In the other room of the match, Mrs. Rut Segander, of the Swedish team, was declarer at three notrump against a club opening lead.

She took the first trick with the ace of clubs, wisely refusing to hold up her ace, ran the five diamond tricks and then tried the heart finesse.

The heart finesse lost, but the clubs broke evenly and the defenders could take only four tricks.

Sweden scored 400 points instead of losing 100 points.

There's an obvious moral in the hand, useful to rubber bridge players as well as to tournament stars: It doesn't pay to hold up an ace at notrump when you have a second weak suit.

If the opponents switch after taking the first trick or two you have gained nothing, but the opponents are that much closer to beating you.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one notrump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:

♠ Q J 9 5

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two clubs, the Stayman Convention, asking partner to show a major suit of four or more cards if he can.

If partner bids two spades, you will jump to four spades; if he bids anything else, you will jump to three notrump.

Porch-Sitting Better Than Boob Tube Viewing

OUR ENVIRONMENT THESE days is too much like a pressure cooker.

Most of this past week radio, TV and the press have been preoccupied with the Republican national convention.

It turned out to be a microcosm. All the world's problems were reviewed — the war in Vietnam, excessively high taxes, crime and violence, poverty, hunger, racial conflicts, the illnesses and ailments of our national economy, drug abuse and all the rest.

There were meetings, meetings, meetings, press conferences, press conferences, press conferences.

When things slowed to the point of boredom, announcers kept us tuned in with hints that great developments might be forthcoming momentarily.

The end of the week finds many of us "wrung out," aware that we were tossed about like molecules of vapor in a pressure cooker.

We had no time to think, to reflect, to ponder, to ruminate, to muse, to meditate, to digest mentally those things which we saw and heard and read about all the problems afflicting the world today.

WHEN THE NOW GENERATION goes back to America's aboriginal Indians to seek fresh cultural patterns, perhaps they go farther back than is necessary.

For cultural refreshment and renewal we may need only go back to the era that ended about 1930, when front porches and verandas gave way to so-called view windows, when formal social calling and promenading in various forms were abandoned in favor of retreat to the isolation of the backyard patio.

The front porch era of American culture had its advantages.

Instead of watching a "boob tube" in a state of perpetually synthesized excitement, you watched the real world from your own front porch.

You saw your neighbors come and go in their normal routine of living. You had time to chat with passersby and reassure yourself that the world about you was not all cockeyed.

You could even nod at strangers and observe that they weren't much different from neighbors.

On the front porch you could relax while the world went by. During gaps in the passing parade you had time to think, reflect, meditate and see things in true perspective.

You even had time to chat a bit with friends and neighbors under circumstances much more genuinely and naturally relaxed than today's cocktail parties.

If porch-sitting ever proved too dull, you could go for a stroll about the neighborhood or park. Like its counterpart in Latin countries, the promenade, the stroll enabled you to see and be seen by friends and acquaintances.

In those days, one would say it also afforded the opportunity for a little innocent flirting between boys and girls. Today's analysts probably would characterize it as placing artificial restrictions on normal relationships between young people of opposite sex.

All-in-all, porch sitting, strolling and "calling" on one's friends kept you reassured that the world was made up of other ordinary people like yourself. It was mostly a safe and sane world, then.

PORCH SITTING AND STROLLING have NOT disappeared altogether. They still survive, although in limited and modified forms.

What do people do on vacations nowadays?

If they go to mountains or seashore, chances are they do some strolling and porch sitting, or at least a comparable equivalent.

In a camp ground, for instance, part of the enjoyment for many is getting to know neighboring campers, watching other campers come and go, strolling about camp to see who is doing what.

If you vacation at a seashore cottage, chances are you enjoy porch sitting or its equivalent, beach sprawling.

If you want to see some of the most affluent and sophisticated people of our times enjoying a form of porch sitting, just check a place where yachts rendezvous — up in the San Joaquin-Sacramento river delta area or even at Angel Island on Sunday afternoon.

You will see yachtsmen porch-sitting on boat decks, watching other yachtsmen. You will see them watch their neighboring yachtsmen come and go. They wave to each other if they are the barest acquaintances. They even wave to yachtsmen they have never met. If they see close friends, they are ushered aboard for a visit.

Strolling? It is done by some who have small boats, dinghies.

They just putt around to see and be seen occasionally being invited aboard a friend's yacht for a visit.

Unlike a scheduled cocktail party in the patio at home, it is a genuinely and naturally relaxed atmosphere.

Even aboard luxury liners, you stroll around the deck to see and be seen. You relax in a deck chair to watch others go by.

Can we claim progress when we have to take a vacation in the mountains or at the seashore, or buy a yacht, or pay for a luxury cruise in order to porch-sit and stroll as our parents and grandparents did each evening at home?

Bouquets And Brickbats

BOUQUETS to Councilman Louis H. Baar for suggesting, and to the San Rafael City Council for passing, a four-cent reduction in the city tax rate — from 90 cents to 84 cents per $100 assessed valuation.

BRICKBATS to those drivers who hit parked cars and go on their way, leaving their victims powerless to collect the cost of repairs of the damage they did.

BOUQUETS to Thomas D. Hardcastle and George H. Ludy, Marin's members of the Golden Gate Bridge District board, for persuading the board to at least study the possibility of the often-suggested one-way toll plan as a means toward speeding traffic movement.

LINES ON LIVING

What Are You Doing With My World?

By RABBI HAIM KEMELMAN

A little boy, so the story goes, was given a world globe as a holiday gift. Cherishing the gift of his private world, he placed it in a secure spot in his room. One night, his parents found themselves debating a point of geography and needed the globe for reference. The father quietly tiptoed into his child's darkened room to reach out for the globe, when he suddenly heard the child's voice unexpectedly directed to him, "Daddy, what are you doing with my world?"

This blunt and innocent question of the child turned the father's thoughts that night from reference points of geography to thoughts of philosophy.

"What are you doing with my world?" asks the child. Are you going to hand over to me a fat allowance with a meager allotment of time of family togetherness? Are you going to fill my room with mechanical toys and leave my heart empty by unfulfilled cravings of the spirit? Are you going to secure for me an education to make a living, without the inspiration to prepare for life? Are you going to bestow upon me a world of things to have without a world of things to do?

"Daddy, what are you doing with my world?" asked the child. Are you going to endow me with the example of love by your acts of love and consideration to mother? With the example of truth, by unfailing loyalty, fidelity and family devotion? With the example of kindness, by the sincerity of charity and grace? With the example of constancy, by steadfast faith and steady hands?

Or are you, daddy, just going to be the father-pal showering solicitous over-protection in a faceless homogenized world of stifling conformity?

Are you going to be my father, the man to inspire loyalty, to guide in righteousness, to uplift in spirit and to set standards — to pass on to me not just worldly goods but the good that you yourself are? "Daddy, what are you doing with my world?"

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

Sometimes it is said that man cannot be trusted with the government of himself. Can he, then, be trusted with the government of others?

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Must Old Folk Carry The Young?

After reading the July 31 front page story about our supervisors granting welfare to hippies, I can't help but wonder if the taxpaying pensioner is not more than disgusted?

We who are on small pensions, have made our contributions to society.

Not overlooking Miss (Betty) Presley's statement that these requests are increasing, and she points out that this group is young, healthy, usually middle class, with better than usual educational attainments, I object to sharing any part of my pension with anyone so undeserving!

There are many worthy young people in minority groups who would not waste the education these hippies are reputed to have! Most of them say, "they don't want a handout, but a chance!"

The following night, your editorial in the I-J covered most of what I had wished to say, better than I could have.

However, I would like to emphasize that we pensioners are being asked to share our small pensions with these undeserving hippies, furthermore, after being taxed out of our small homes, we are forced to seek some of this low rent housing which our pensions also help to pay for!

Seems silly doesn't it? How long must the old folks carry the young?

ROBERT J. LEACH

Storer's Remarks Not About 'Hippies'

Nine general relief cases were heard by the board of supervisors on Tuesday, July 30. Of these nine cases, five were recent residents who generally fit the popular definition of "hippy." Of these five, four were disabled to a degree that they are unemployable and the other one is actively seeking employment.

The board of supervisors made it clear, and I subscribe to this wholeheartedly, that a person who is able to work, but who refuses to work, will not receive general relief assistance from the people of Marin County. I stated that under no circumstances would I, as a supervisor in Marin County, allow our county to become a "gravy train" for those who are able to work but who refuse to.

In the course of making additional remarks, I spoke of interest on the part of kids (not hippies) in minibuses. I mentioned that on occasions I had given rides to kids (not hippies) and asked them if they would use such a service; most said they would.

I also spoke of a certain disenchantment on the part of many kids following the assassinations of President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

At no time did I use the word "hippy."

GOLDEN GATE VIEW

Four On Bridge Board Due To Lose Positions

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

Fifty-six years of experience will be lost to the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District when legislation altering the composition of its board of directors becomes law.

The legislation (AB 855) by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, is on the governor's desk for signature, after having passed both houses of the Legislature by unanimous votes.

It will cut four incumbent directors from the board one month after its signing. George H. Ludy of Inverness, William D. Hadeler and Dan E. London of San Francisco, and E. J. Guidotti of Sonoma County.

THE FOUR will have to go because the bill requires a certain number of elected officials, county supervisors and city councilmen, to serve on the board as the appointees of the boards of supervisors in the six-county district. The next change would not be due until 1970, when the term of Ben K. Lerer of San Francisco expires.

The bill provided a "grandfather clause" so incumbent directors could not be replaced until their terms expire.

Of the four immediate victims, Ludy has served four years, Hadeler 32, London 16, and Guidotti four. Hadeler, "dean" of the directors, was appointed to the board five months before the bridge opened.

It is entirely possible, of course, that the loss of four directors and their 56 years of experience may be more than offset by the advantages of having elected officials on the board. Bagley has argued that the change will make the board more responsive to the public.

HADELER and London clearly were taken aback by passage of Bagley's bill. "It's my Christmas present," said Hadeler, whose term expires Dec. 24.

Ludy hopes he can beat the new law by resigning at the same time as Marin's other director, Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato, and being appointed in Hardcastle's place as the public representative of Marin. The new law requires that Marin's representatives include a supervisor, a councilman and a member of the public.

Ludy's plan will work only if Hardcastle resigns before the law becomes effective. If Hardcastle resigns afterward, then the supervisors will have to replace him with an elected official.

Of course, Ludy could hold tight until his term expires, and hope that the supervisors will have appointed both elected officials by then so he could be reappointed.

Hardcastle, incidentally, strongly has endorsed William Jack Adams of Novato as his own replacement.

THE BILL "creates a conflict of interest" by allowing elected officials to serve on the bridge board, claims the bridge district's attorney, Jerome B. White. "But I'm not saying it's unconsititutional," he added quickly after a recent board meeting.

No one ever suggested there was a conflict of interest, however, on the Marin County Transit District board, which includes five supervisors.

It is hoped that having elected officials on the bridge board will make more of a difference than having them on the transit district board.

Fortas Fight Behind Plank In Platform

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

MIAMI BEACH — There is a great deal more than is apparent on the surface in that brief and generally unnoticed plank on the Supreme Court in the Republican platform.

What is really behind it is a sensationally explosive new phase in the torrid fight against Justice Abe Fortas's elevation to chief justice.

Outwardly there is no hint of that, as follows: "We advocate application of the highest standards in making appointments to the courts. And we pledge a determined effort to rebuild and enhance public respect for the Supreme Court."

THIS CAREFULLY generalized declaration is a compromise reached after a sharp backstage clash between Sen. Everett Dirksen, Ill., platform committee chairman, who favors Fortas's appointment, and Sen. Robert Griffin, Mich., and others spearheading the bi-partisan battle against it.

They wanted a clear-cut pronouncement against President Johnson's "crony." Dirksen and Rockefeller partisans balked. To avoid a disruptive furore, the Griffin group finally agreed to the compromise that was adopted.

But their options remain untouched and wide open to raise the dynamite-loaded new issue against Fortas. It is highly personal and involves not only Fortas but his cigar-smoking lawyer wife, Carol.

Nothing has been said about this matter in the still-pending proceedings of the Senate judiciary committee which is considering Fortas's controversial appointment. But senators opposing him, on the basis of their attitude at the just-concluded Republican national convention, appear ready to bring it into the open in a last-ditch drive to keep Fortas from becoming chief justice.

CRUX OF THIS phase is the Fortases' personal finances and their business relations and activities. It is well known that they are wealthy, with a large home in the swank and historic Georgetown section of Washington, and sport a two-tone Rolls-Royce. Also that Mrs. Fortas has long been a member of her husband's former law firm, and that she has a large and flourishing practice in tax cases.

In the more than century and a half history of the Supreme Court, Mrs. Fortas is the only wife to actively practice law while her husband was a justice on the tribunal.

During and since the judiciary committee's hearings, the opposition has received additional information that is being looked into. In substance it consists of the following allegations:

1 — Mrs. Fortas is now actually the senior partner of the law firm, having taken over his interest, and draws an estimated $200,000 a year as her share of the firm's very lucrative practice.

2 — A serious conflict of interest may exist due to the fact that Mrs. Fortas specializes in tax law which involves the Internal Revenue Service — a federal agency. From time to time the Supreme Court passes on its cases.

SENATE DEPUTY Democratic leader Robert Byrd, W. Va., is openly urging the withdrawal of Fortas's appointment. Byrd voted for Fortas when he was named to the Supreme Court in 1965. But the plain-talking West Virginian is drawing the line on elevating him to chief justice.

"I do not agree with the so-called lame duck argument," says Byrd, "nor do I find any fault whatever with his jurisdictional qualifications. My objections to Mr. Fortas go entirely to his record on the Supreme Court. His votes constitute the best light by which a senator may be guided as to his philosophy as chief justice.

"I do not think it makes much sense for me to go out and make fire and brimstone speeches supporting law and order, and then turn right around and vote for a Supreme Court justice whose decisions have hurt law and order."

A SENATOR'S NOTEBOOK

Nominees Cannot Shirk 'Taking It To People'

By EVERETT McKINLEY DIRKSEN

Richard M. Nixon and Spiro T. Agnew, his vice presidential running mate on the Republican ticket, must, during the next few days, look ahead to the man-killing weeks of the campaign after Labor Day. For two months they will travel almost everywhere on a back-breaking, crisscross-the-country schedule that may win them the nation's highest offices.

Some in politics and government are greatly concerned, after assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy and the urgent necessity for secrecy in planning the current itineraries of President Johnson, over the danger to those men who meet vast crowds under conditions of inadequate protection. Many have suggested that presidential campaigning this year should be done only on radio and television, to avoid exposure and danger of being assaulted when there is so much fever and unrest in the air.

The answer must, I think be "no."

DO WE NOW take a look at America, at this country where freedom is the very keystone of government, where free institutions are our pride and joy and where the people, by virtue of representative government, select at all levels those who shall speak for them, and then confess that it is not safe for a candidate for the presidency to present himself to the people?

If we do, it will indeed be a most sordid confession.

That campaigning is an awful task is well known by any of us who have taken to the campaign trails.

Wherever possible, a candidate uses scheduled airlines to move from city to city, but at other times he has to travel by private plane to get to cities off the main line.

With frequent meetings and long mileage in between, it is impossible to keep at hand a constantly fresh supply of fresh clothes and linen. Food differs from place to place, and the time changes from one time zone to another interfere with restful sleep.

Along the whole way there is no time for relaxation. In one town after another there are people who are determined to call and shake hands, and it cuts sharply into the available time.

That is what Nixon and Agnew will have to put up with.

IN SEEKING exposure to the voters of the country, it is necessary to go forth into all corners of the land and see the people. This is the people's country, and I stress the word "people." The Constitution has a preamble that begins with the words "We the people" and ends with the words ". . . do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

The moral to this story is that there must be obedience and enforcement of the law. For us to tamper with the principle by seeking to shield those who stand for public office against exposure to the people would indeed be a confession of weakness.

It would be a confession that we can no longer maintain an orderly society. That would be suicidal. I cannot imagine that Americans would dare accept such a state of affairs. If we do, we will have moved far in the direction of the liquidation of freedom which is the hallmark of this nation.

URGENT PLEA

Churches In Desperate Fight Versus Starvation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP) — "For God's sake please airlift more baby food immediately. Thousands of children dying daily. Situation appalling."

The cablegram from a Catholic missionary priest this week, citing the desperation in the blockaded Biafra region of embattled Nigeria, was part of a dramatic, mounting interfaith operation to check mass starvation there.

American Catholic and Protestant relief agencies have joined their efforts.

Through both Catholic Relief Services here and the interdenominational Protestant-Orthodox Church World Service, a rising tide of high-protein foods and medicines moved toward the region of crisis.

There were international complications, pressures and bottlenecks. But despite the difficulties, some church cargoes still were getting through, with indications of a bigger flow.

"Thank God for what Christian bodies are doing," said an American United Nations official. "Without them the consequences would be even more ghastly."

In the tangle of restrictions and civil war, the religious relief effort took on the covert, perilous quality of underground border running—by night airlifts. Church officials said five planes have been lost, either crashed or shot down.

Relief flights from the World Council of Churches storehouses at the off-coast Spanish island of Fernado Po last week were blocked by Spanish authorities, but they continued from Catholic depots on the Portuguese island of Sao Tome.

This week, the Rev. Anthony Byrne, a long-time Irish Catholic missionary in Biafra now in charge of emergency airlifts out of Sao Tome, cabled that he had assurance church airlifts could be stepped up to four flights each night.

Meanwhile, a roundabout telephone message received here from Dr. H. J. Middelkoop, a World Council physician at Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Biafra, said the number dying daily had increased from 2,000 two weeks ago to 6,000 a day now.

Religious groups—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish—joined in appeals to President Johnson and congressional leaders to provide helicopter food airlifts to both sides in the struggle.

The religion officials also scheduled meetings with Secretary of State Dean Rusk about it, noting that their relief efforts could scarcely dent the enormous starvation devastating the war-blocked region.

Amid the tightening blockade, a Church World Service spokesman said: "The irony of it is that we've got food galore" stored along the perimeter of Nigeria, but can't get in. We're blocked off, even our sneak flights."

Catholic and Protestant organizations joined this week in providing recorded appeals for contributions to about 4,300 radio stations across the country, and picture slides and appeals to about 600 television stations.

Each American Christian branch already has raised more than $300,000, and Church World Service is seeking $1 million as its share in a special $3-million drive by the World Council's relief arm, in addition to the $3.8 million in goods it already has sent to the area.

Church World Service so far has shipped 493 tons of foods, vitamins and medicines to the area, and a fleet of trucks was bringing 250 tons of high-protein beans from Michigan to coastal ports.

The new American Jewish Emergency Effort for Biafra Relief last weekend rounded up three tons of medicines and $10,000 to support Christian airlifts, and placed newspaper ads appealing for more aid.

Israel Connected To Theology

NEW YORK, N. Y. — Opposition to the State of Israel rests in an inability or unwillingness by Christians to understand the theologic importance, rather than the political validity of statehood, according to a Jewish and Christian Theologian in a recent issue of the CCAB Journal, the quarterly publication of the Central Conference of American Rabbis. (Reform Rabbinic Association)

In "Israel and The Christian Conscience," Rabbi David Polish, Evanston, Ill., writes that Jews and the Land of Israel are inseparable because of a timeless religious commitment, and that the State of Israel is merely the political instrument "by which the land is given renewal and by which the people is preserved."

In "The Jewish-Christian Encounter," A. Roy Eckardt, a Christian theologian echoes the view that "Until Christians accept and understand the decisiveness of Jewish peoplehood for Jews," interfaith dialogue is without substance.

A Jewish homeland is an indispensable theological component of Jewish existence, Polish writes, validated in Jewish literature and germane to the logic that has subliminally moved Jews from the beginning of their history.

Thus, he says, exile (the Diaspora) was more than a national disaster. "It represented a breach in the very order of nature," and whatever today threatens the State of Israel politically endangers Jews religiously.

"If Diaspora Jewry was sustained by its vicarious identification with the land and its historical figures," Polish says, "nothing less than a physical renewal with that land could again evoke the full intensity of the sense of Jewish continuity."

Christian s fail to grasp this, the article states, and continue to proselytize the Jew as the ultimate escape from anti-Semitism. "Religious factors have found much of the Christian world unprepared and perhaps unwilling to confront the reality of a Jewish State. There is a readiness to accept the sinfulness of anti-Semitism. There is not readiness to accept the existence of a Jewish Israel as a people of both place and time."

The Christian world, Polish says, regards the Jew as a Diaspora dweller, "and this homelessness represents both a cause of this spiritual peculiarity and a penalty for it."

"What Judaism always recognized was that hatred of Jews was related to their homelessness. Hatred could not be extracted by fiat alone, but by an act of restoration. The teaching of contempt was related to its justification — Jewish exile."

Pronouncements from various recent assemblies of the World Council of Churches make plain, Polish declares, that while there is universal sympathy for Jewish suffering, silence on Israel as a political entity stems from an ignorance of Jewish redemption through possession of the land.

Polish expresses what he calls severe misgivings about dialogue that does not preclude "a more effective program of making authentic knowledge of Judaism and the Jewish people available. . . . And suspension of dialogue is an eloquent form of instruction."

Eckardt calls upon Christians, not Jews, to repent in their relationship with a people of whom Christians demand sainthood while assuming that they are devils.

The dialogue between the two peoples is termed "a sham . . . little more than a nice exercise in public relations that has never penetrated the real issues that divide, or for that matter, unite them.

The contemporary Jewish-Christian encounter is preeminently a Christian problem, just as the so-called Negro problem is prevailingly the problem of whites and their racism. "Until Christians accept and understand the decisiveness of Jewish peoplehood for Jews," Eckardt says, "the dialogue can hardly be renewed."

Eckardt accuses his co-religionists of preserving an inequality in which true dialogue cannot function, and calls for a single standard for judging and living "with the corporate aspirations of all peoples — Israelis and Arabs, Africans and Europeans, Asians and Americans.

"Unhappily, the double standard continues to pervade the United Nations. Within just past months we have been treated to the spectacle of a demand that Israel is obligated to keep the peace but not her enemies."

Eckardt disagrees that the silence of Christian churches in support of Israel stems from an unawareness of what the land means to the Jewish people.

"No, I believe that (the silence) has been much more a matter of human perversity, its association with certain pathological attitudes toward Jews that lie within the collective unconscious of Christendom. . . . The cancer lurks just below the surface, waiting to be spread, under the influence of varying historical circumstances. What, after all, do the lives of a few million Jews matter to the pagan that lives with the Christian soul?"

The author refers "to the abiding Christian threat to Jewish faith and to Jewish self-identification, the condition that makes it unjust for Jews to respond by looking upon Christians as their moral equals." Jews do not seek to destroy Christianity, Eckardt says, but the opposite — "when all the nice words are seen through," — is not the case.

Gordon Installation Set For Tomorrow

Roswell Curtis Gordon will be installed as associate minister of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the church, 72 Kensington Road.

Reverend Gordon, a 1968 graduate of San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, is the son of Reverend Herbert E. Gordon, a Presbyterian minister who has served congregations in the Bay Area since the 1940s.

A native of Berkeley, he attended schools in Chehalis, Wash., Richmond, San Leandro, Berkeley and San Anselmo. He was graduated from the University of California at Berkeley in 1958, served as an officer in the Navy and was engaged in medical research with the California Department of Public Health.

An active layman prior to his ordination as a teaching elder, Gordon served as a deacon, ruling elder and clerk of session and member of a Presbytery committee.

Gordon, his wife, Marilynn, and their three children live in San Anselmo.

The service will be conducted by the Presbytery of the Redwoods and will include as participants representatives of several religious traditions including Congregation Rodef Sholom, San Rafael; St. John's Episcopal Church, Ross; St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, Marin City; First Baptist Church, San Anselmo; Westminster Presbyterian Church, Portland, Ore.; Christ the Victor Lutheran Church, Fairfax; St. Anselm's Roman Catholic Church, San Anselmo, Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Larkspur. The guitar choir of St. Anselm's parish will provide special music.

To be installed

Vacation School At Novato Church

Vacation Bible School at the Loma Verde Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, 375 Calle Arboleda, Novato, will start at 9 a.m. Monday.

Classes for children, four through 15, will be held through Aug. 23, from 9 a.m. to noon. The theme will be "People Everywhere Work for God" and there will be an achievement night.

New Pastor Due

Reverend Kenneth W. Behnken of Great Bend, Kans., has accepted a call to become pastor of Peace Lutheran Church, Tamalpais Valley, and is scheduled to arrive next week, the church reported.

Laymen Building Overseas Projects

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (UPI)—Laymen are pitching in to help in overseas missions construction projects of the Assemblies of God, a Pentecostal denomination of 8,510 churches.

Under the denomination's Mobilization and Placement Service (MAPS), 25 men have participated or will participate in construction of a church at Freeport on Grand Bahama Island. Carpenters, electricians, plumbers and others with construction skills apply to MAPS for scheduling into teams which work in two-week relays to keep the project going.

Evening School Set At Novato Church

An evening vacation bible school will be held this year in addition to the regular vacation bible school at the Bethel Bapist Church at 1929 Novato Boulevard, Novato.

The daily vacation bible school for those through 11 years of age will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 19 through 28.

The evening vacation bible school will be held for Junior and Senior high school students and adults from 7:30 to 9 p.m., Aug. 19 through 23.

Rev. Wilbur Bullard, pastor of the Church, will preside at a 45 minute general assembly for the evening school. After that the three groups will be lead in discussions by Melvin Jensen, Mrs. Wilbur Bullard, and Mrs. Leland Smith.

A nursery will be provided for the children of parents wishing to attend the evening bible school.

Walker Leaving Church Post To Become College Minister

George F. Walker Jr. is resigning as minister of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Tiburon, to become campus minister at Humboldt State College, Arcata, and the College of the Redwoods, Eureka.

The congregation has accepted his resignation and his final Sunday in the Tiburon pulpit will be Sept. 29.

Reverend Walker will live in the Big Lagoon recreational area, 30 miles north of Eureka, and will continue as stated clerk of the Presbytery of the Redwoods.

In his letter of resignation, Reverend Walker said: " . . . You deserve a new face, a new idea, a new vigor, a new leader. But now you must do two things: You must be the Church in this place with all its complex problems and you must let me go. . . . "

Reverend Walker was installed as minister of the church in November, 1960, arriving from the First Presbyterian Church of Colton, San Bernardino County, where he was minister for three years.

GEORGE F. WALKER JR.
Resigning post

Mrs. Walker, who has taught at Tamalpais High School and at the College of Marin, will substitute at various school districts in northern Humboldt County and will teach one course at Humboldt State College.

New York Youths At Jewish Center

The Marin Jewish Community Center, 200 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia, is host this weekend to a group of 17 teen-agers from the Syracuse, N.Y. Jewish Community Center.

The group, on a cross-country bus tour, will camp at the center through Monday. They attended services last night and have been invited to participate in a discussion tomorrow on current topics.

Campfire Service

The First Baptist Church of San Anselmo will hold campfire church services at 7 p.m. tomorrow at the natural amphitheater in the center of Samuel P. Taylor State Park, near Lagunitas.

Youth Conference Cites Unrest

By THERON A. NEWELL

A search for a common denominator among the restless youth of the world today in Christianity was the main theme of the Seventh Baptist Youth Conference held July 22 to 28 in Berne, Switzerland, according to Martha Skelton of Novato, who returned home Saturday from the conference.

Miss Skelton, 24, of 1379 Cambridge Street, was one of 6,000 young people from 60 different countries who attended the conference.

The theme of the conference was billed as: "One World, One Lord, One Witness."

"The world is full of unrest today among the young people. We must search for a reality relating the youth of today with what Christianity has to offer them," Dr. Paul Tournier of France, a psychiatrist and keynote speaker, told the young people, Miss Skelton reported.

Doctor Tourner spoke in French and his speech was simultaneously translated into many languages, as at the United Nations, she reported. All the other speeches were made in English, she said.

Miss Annie Vallotton, French illustrator of "Good news for modern man" a modern version of the New Testament, gave an illustrated talk each night on bible stores, according to Miss Skelton.

After speeches young people met in groups and compared countries.

"I could not get used to the applause during religious services," she said. When they had the parade of all the various nations, the choir sang Handel's "Halleluja Chorus," and afterwards, everyone applauded.

MARTHA SKELTON
Back from meet

"I had never heard applause after the "Halleluja Chorus" before, she said.

In the discussion group later, she said that the others said that they usually did not applaud either. Then it came out that the other nations thought that the Americans did, so they applauded to make the Americans feel at home, she said.

Miss Skelton, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Roger Skelton, said that approximately half of those attending the conference were from the United States. She got interested in the conference because her father is a professor at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

She went to Berne as one of 27 young people on a tour which took them through England, Denmark, France, Germany, East Berlin, Czechoslovakia, Austria, Italy and Spain.

Her most anxious moments were the delay caused when they took a bus from West Berlin to East Berlin to catch the plane to Czechoslovakia, she said.

"They kept us waiting in the bus for two hours while they cleared our passports," she said. When they reached Czechoslovakia, the attitude of the officials and people were much better she said.

"At the conference, the Czech representative said that he was happy to report that there was now a more liberal attitude in his country," she said.

Phone Confession

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The "listening ear" has been established by the Lutheran Church here, enabling people to telephone ministers at the church to confess anything about which they may feel guilty.

For the most part, the ministers say nothing, but just listen until the caller gets it off his chest.

Bolinas Couple And Their Brood Maintain An Old-Fashioned Unity

There's No Generation Gap Between Rivas Parents And Their 13 Children

By ELIZABETH VOELKEL

Marin County is home to many extraordinary families.

But in this day and age of concern over disintegrating family ties and a gap between the generations, the Fred Rivas family of Aspen Road, Bolinas, must be considered not only exceptional, but exemplary as well.

Fred and Marjorie Rivas are the proud parents of 13 remarkably beautiful children, ranging in ages from 1 to 24 years, all healthy, normal, well-adjusted, well-disciplined, intelligent, considerate and courteous.

THEY MAKE UP the kind of family that many bewail as a thing of the past. They demonstrate that the closely knit, happily cohesive family can still be found in today's society.

After giving birth to 13 children, Marjorie Rivas is still a youthful-looking attractive woman.

Her husband is an optimistic and courageous man, deeply concerned with the well-being of his family but strong in the face of adversity.

A RUN-DOWN of the Rivas children goes like this:

Rita, 24, now married to Henry Hernandez; Lonnie 21, also married; Ronald (Ronnie), 19, who works at Marin General Hospital but will soon be going into service; Carol Ann, 18, employed at the same hospital as a clerk, and Yvonne, 17, Rudy, 15, Jeanette, 14, Loretta, 13, Charles, 11, Patricia, 8, Darlene, 6, Abraham (Abey), 3, and Alma Lou, 1.

In addition to the children, there are four Rivas dogs "and one guest dog," as well as frequent visits from neighbor-owned canines.

Occasionally, dogfights will shatter the quiet of Bolinas, a "doggy town" anyway. And almost as noisily but less frequently the Rivas boys will tangle with one another.

MARJORIE RIVAS, mild-mannered, soft-spoken, accepts it all philosophically: "They have to get these moments out of their system. We don't suppress them too much. And they soon settle down."

The Rivas children, however, are anything but the products that many associate with the outcome of the present day permissive approach to child-rearing. Although it seems rare nowadays to find a child who obeys his parents without a lot of argument and back talk, Mr.

Announcing new Counternoid*: A non-surgical treatment for hemorrhoid sufferers!

The only hemorrhoid treatment that works 3 ways:

1. Counternoid treats sore, swollen tissue injured by hemorrhoids.
2. No other product works like Counternoid to relieve pain.
3. Counternoid attacks a major cause of hemorrhoids.

New Counternoid was designed to provide more than ordinary surface treatment. Counternoid's exclusive formulation with DSS_{30}™ penetrates into the rectal area to soften, lubricate and ease painful constipation...one of the major causes of hemorrhoids. At the same time, Counternoid's formula works by coating and protecting injured tissue.

In hospital X-ray tests, doctors have demonstrated that Counternoid's exclusive formulation with DSS_{30} penetrates within minutes to the top of the rectum where it eases the pain of constipated bowel movements without laxative effect. When you use Counternoid as directed, you will do more than just lessen the pain and aggravation of hemorrhoids. With the unique action of DSS_{30} working against hard stool constipation, you will be helping to provide the best possible conditions for natural healing to take place. Only new Counternoid works this way to actually attack this major cause of hemorrhoids.

When used as directed, medically tested Counternoid offers the most complete 3-way relief you can get without prescription or painful surgery.

If you live with the pain and fear of recurring minor hemorrhoid troubles, get temporary relief with amazing new Counternoid.

New Counternoid is available in white, stainless cream and suppositories. With Counternoid there is no mess, no embarrassing stains. Now at all drug counters.

Portrait Of A Large And Happy Family

and Mrs. Fred Rivas have produced 13 such offspring.

While the youngsters have been allowed to develop naturally, no rudeness or disrespect is tolera ed.

LIKE MOST devoted and indulgent parents, the Rivases like to find a streak of pronounced independence in a child — if that child can state his views and make known his needs without making a nuisance of himself and a total wreck of his parents.

The first time I saw this delightful family, my visit was unplanned and unexpected.

I found one young daughter busy cleaning the bathroom, another mopping the floor, another washing dishes and still a fourth tending to the baby.

EACH GIRL WAS doing what she was supposed to do, and, apparently, what she wanted to do as well. There was no scowling, no protest.

I might add that any of these beautiful girls would make an ideal subject for an oil painting.

Of the eight daughters and five sons, seven play musical instruments. The father plays the ukelele, guitar, harmonica and accordion.

INFORMAL MUSICAL get-togethers have been one effective means of fostering togetherness in the family circle.

The Rivas (pronounced Ree-vus) family moved to Marin County from San Antonio, Tex., seven years ago. He had been employed on survey crews for the San Antonio Public Works Department. Then in a car crash he had suffered serious injuries.

The city of San Antonio paid the Rivas doctor and hospital bills. But after that, he was on his own.

SO BEHIND this scene of happy living in a happy home is a past history of a breadwinner who has suffered a broken back that required lengthy traction, a broken left wrist improperly set and still in need of orthopedic surgery, a broken right ankle that has pins in it to enable him to walk, a fractured knee cap and a skull fracture.

Few of his Marin acquaintances are aware of this past. And when Rivas speaks of it, it is not with self-pity or in complaint.

He is distressed, however, that when prospective employers look at his medical record, their inevitable decision is: "No, I just don't think that you could do the job."

CONSEQUENTLY, his accumulation of injuries and their continuing effects have kept Rivas from the kind of work he prefers, or from working at any kind of a strenuous, full-time job.

Despite his outward dignity, calm and sense of humor, the problem of how to feed and clothe his large family under such circumstances has undoubtedly caused him inner worry and anxiety. For it has left him with an ulcerated stomach.

Still he says thoughtfully in his low voice: "We are Roman Catholics of the old school, and I have not lost faith in my church or my God."

THEN HIS FACE breaks into a smile: "And I am in love with my wife."

The smile becomes broader as he sweeps an arm proudly around the room, taking in his brood huddled in front of the television set. "And as you can see, I have been true to my wife." The smile becomes a laugh because laughter is second nature to him.

Rivas picks up his guitar idly and strums a few bars. The children come alive. The television set is switched off. No TV program can compete with their father. They gather around his chair, the baby in his lap.

I left reassured by my discovery that family unity and love still exists in this day and age. That not all the old standards and traditions have vanished from our midst.

Polynesian Vacation Leaves Memories

By DON KEOWN

What do returned travelers back from Tahiti remember about their trip?

Many, many things say Mr. and Mrs. Lou Aquilino of San Anselmo, and those memories are all the more pleasant when the holiday has cost you nothing from your own bank account.

The Aquilinos made their South Seas trip aboard a UTI French Airlines jet as the grand prize winners in the Independent-Journal's highly successful "Make the Headlines" contest of last winter.

IT WILL BE, the Aquilinos say, many, many years before they forget their enjoyable experiences.

Experiences, for instance, such as the tamaraa or native feast they attended, thanks to George Rambke, a fellow San Anselman well acquainted with the island who introduced them to his Polynesian friends.

The feast, the Aquilinos say, was one of the highlights of their Tahiti stay.

"A tamaraa features raw fish and roast suckling pig, accompanied by breadfruit, wild mountain bananas, fafa (spinach), taro (potato), and much more," says Mrs. Aquilino.

"THE OVEN consists of a hole

in the ground about four feet square. The food is cooked in the hole over pre-heated rocks.

"Various dishes are wrapped in banana leaves, placed over the hot rocks and then the whole oven is covered with banana leaves. It's a cooking process similar to a Hawaiian luau, and it takes about an hour."

During the cooking, highballs, beer and wine are enjoyed.

The feast itself, she says, goes on for hours. No silverware or napkins are on the table. All food is eaten with the fingers.

"AND THE natives got a big kick out of watching us attempting to adapt to that custom," Pat Aquilino says. "We had food juices practically running down our elbows."

Dessert consisted of cooked wild bananas in coconut milk.

"Then," says Mrs. Aquilino, "the French champagne began to flow."

Two hours later, guitars appeared and singing and dancing soon followed, to continue far into the night.

WELL REMEMBERED too was a 75-mile drive with George Rambke as their guide on the road encircling the island. "We had the feeling of being in one large and beautiful tropical park," Mrs. Aquilino says.

She adds: "And there was no need for a road map. The road automatically brings you back to your point of departure."

There was, however, a break to visit the famed Paul Gauguin museum.

And another stop when two huge, penned tortoises were sighted along the road. "I couldn't resist the urge to ride on one of them," Mrs. Aquilino says. "It was my first turtleback ride."

THE AQUILINOS remember Saturday nights as nights of special fun in the capital city of Papeete. "All the bars on the quay and back streets are filled to capacity." The Aquilinos naturally, had to visit internationally known Quinn's.

A plane trip to Bora Bora with a stop on the island of Raiatea provided the Marin couple with still another unforgettable experience. It included a walk along the white sand beach and a successful hunt for seashells.

Pat Aquilino describes Bora Bora as "the most exotic of the four islands we visited — truly a paradise."

MOOREA, HOWEVER, left its impression, too, as "a fantastic jumble of jungle-cloaked spires, shimmering beaches and emerald lagoons." Cook's Bay, where their boat landed, was, Mrs. Aquilino says, "the most beautiful bay we had ever seen."

Perhaps the strongest of all the many impressions brought back by the Aquilinos are those of the Tahitian people themselves.

The native Polynesians are among the most handsome of the world's races. And also among the friendliest.

SAYS PAT Aquilino: "Most of the natives walk barefoot or wear thongs. Practically all the young girls wear micro-mini skirts, and the men wear Bermuda shorts."

And women's dress shops do not even bother to stock such items as nylon stockings, girdles and slips.

The simplicity of island life is also reflected in the absence of American newspapers. Hotel

"Is It Necessary To Have Woolen Blankets Drycleaned?"

You, probably, will think so if you unfold your woolen blanket and observe the remains of the banquet you served to moths, silver fish, crickets and other insects. This applies to all woolen fabrics put away for a season without cleaning, just because they didn't appear soiled.

Clean woolens leave moths and other insects with nothing on which to chew. Actually, they destroy woolens while seeking the almost invisible soil which may be in the fabric.

The best protection you can give woolen blankets and woolen garments is to have them cleaned professionally and moth-proofed before storing. Remember, too, that blankets should be stored at the top of closets or bureau drawers. Heavy loads piled on top of blankets destroy the tiny air spaces that retain body warmth and give blankets their fluffy feel.

Barney West Shifts Goals In Sculpturing

By GIL PEARSON

Marin wood sculptor Barney West has made a considerable impact on the art world with his huge tiki carvings — half-ten giant redwood statues, 16 to 20 feet tall and four feet thick. But now his goals have shifted.

"These days my designs are aimed at meeting the surge in demand for modern, free-form compositions," West explains. "An artist can get hungry waiting around for buyers of $4,000 Goliaths. So I'm producing man-size impressionisms at prices within the grasp of almost any patio owner."

As with abstract paintings, free-form sculpture delivers fun by stimulating mental gymnastics among observors. You read them with as much latitude as you do cloud formations and mountain profiles.

The artist is gratified when forms he conjures bring out varied interpretations because then his challenge to develop free thinking is achieved.

TIKI JUNCTION, located hard by both sides of a little-used railroad track in Sausalito, has for some years been the source for exciting South Seas wooden figures used decoratively in homes, motels, and supermarkets across the nation.

Many restaurants throughout California owe their Polynesian motifs to Barney West, a furious working sculptor who his admirers say has the vigor of a Teddy Roosevelt and the imagination of a latter-day Leonardo da Vinci.

This enterprising master of the chisel has bull-necked his way through a prodigious amount of subject matter in the rugged field of art-by-knife.

Such as: Easter Island heads, antiqued masks, native shields, painted outriggers, totem poles, crests, thunderbirds, spears, Buddhas, Qun Yens, cigar store Indians, and ship figureheads.

SCULPTOR WEST is not a born artist. "I was never interested in art in my youth."

He was a sailor for much of his life. "As a boy, I went to sea with my father who was a chief

LINING THE SHELVES of Barney West's gift shop at his Tiki Junction are small figurines of tikis, bears, cat, whales and other animals, and wall plaques. Such smaller work is in sharp contrast to the half-ton redwood tiki statues for which the Sausalito sculpturer is best-known.

BARNEY WEST SURVEYS a line-up of pygmy gods that he has sculptured from wood. Such pieces have found a ready market among restaurants, motels and supermarkets whose proprietars use the exotic statuary to help create a colorful Polynesian atmosphere for their establishments.

A TIKI BY sculptor Barney West begins with a redwood log, shipped down from the Santa Cruz mountains and sawed to various lengths. Here he strips the bark from a log with a skilled and practiced hand. The pieces behind him were once just such logs.

There's A New Creative Trend At Barney West's Tiki Junction

Sculptor Turns Attention To Work In Free-Form

engineer." (Aboard the Wapama, a venerable steam schooner now on display at San Francisco's Ship Museum at the foot of Hyde Street.)

Later in life Barney joined the merchant marine. "I shipped out as cook and worked in galleys all over the Pacific for 10 years."

In due time, primitive Oceanic art attracted him. "Polynesian images captured my imagination, I think, because the natives could turn out such striking carving with simple tools. I felt a great urge to fall-to and create statues as good as theirs but I didn't get around to trying my hand until years later when I settled down in Larkspur."

Following dozens of tries, he began to get the hang of it and he turned out some creditable figures.

BARNEY'S VERY first sale was a five-foot-long tiki (pronounced, tea-key, and translated as god from Polynesia). "When I finished that carving I threw it over on my shoulder and carried it over to Trader Vic's restaurant. He bought it on the spot and ordered more."

As the demand increased, Barney had to find a way to produce the figures more rapidly. The old painstaking method of working with chisels and axe was much too slow. So he began using chain saws, electric grinders and sanders.

The Lanai Restaurant in San Mateo ordered 15 tikis . . . Barney gnashed his teeth, bought a second chain saw, ordered more redwood logs and carved away for months — with his Teddy Roosevelt-style attack.

The Lanai order filled, he plunged into job after job turning restaurants across the country into Polynesian paradises.

ONE COMMISSION called for a 3,000 pound, 18-foot giant that required the help of several Sausalito artist friends to complete. When they had sawed the last chip away, and the great log had been turned into a grimacing god, a crane was summoned. The god was lifted high, then gently lowered to a cradle on a flatcar where it was secured face up and uncovered.

Barney stood by with his friends and hated to see it go.

"That baby put 10 years on me," he says. "Don't know if I'll ever do another like it. Maybe though . . . if somebody really wants one . . . and will pay. That god rode clear to the East face up to the sun and rain all the way."

IT IS FREE-FORM sculpture which holds Barney West's interest today. He has a number of apprentice artists learning the trade under his practiced eye. They are turning out many fantastic designs.

For the future, there is his ambition to load the hold of a sailing vessel with tikis of all sizes and plow the seas to Hawaii to sell his surplus stock to world travelers from dockside on one of the islands.

A GIANT TIKI standing solemn sentinel duty at Tiki Junction, Sausalito, and waiting for a buyer, towers over its creator, Barney West. For contrast, West is holding the smallest tiki he has carved. It measures just 10 inches tall.

THE FINISHING "antiquing" touches are applied by Barney West to this South Seas monster head, a typical piece of wood sculpture at his Tiki Junction. West has been fascinated by things Polynesian since his merchant marine days.

FREE-FORM SCULPTURE is the current primary interest of Barney West. Such pieces stimulate the imagination, and serve as decorative pieces in foyers and patios. (Photos by Gil Pearson) guests' only communication with the outside world is a daily two-page, letter-size memeographed bulletin containing digests of the news as monitored from the radio.

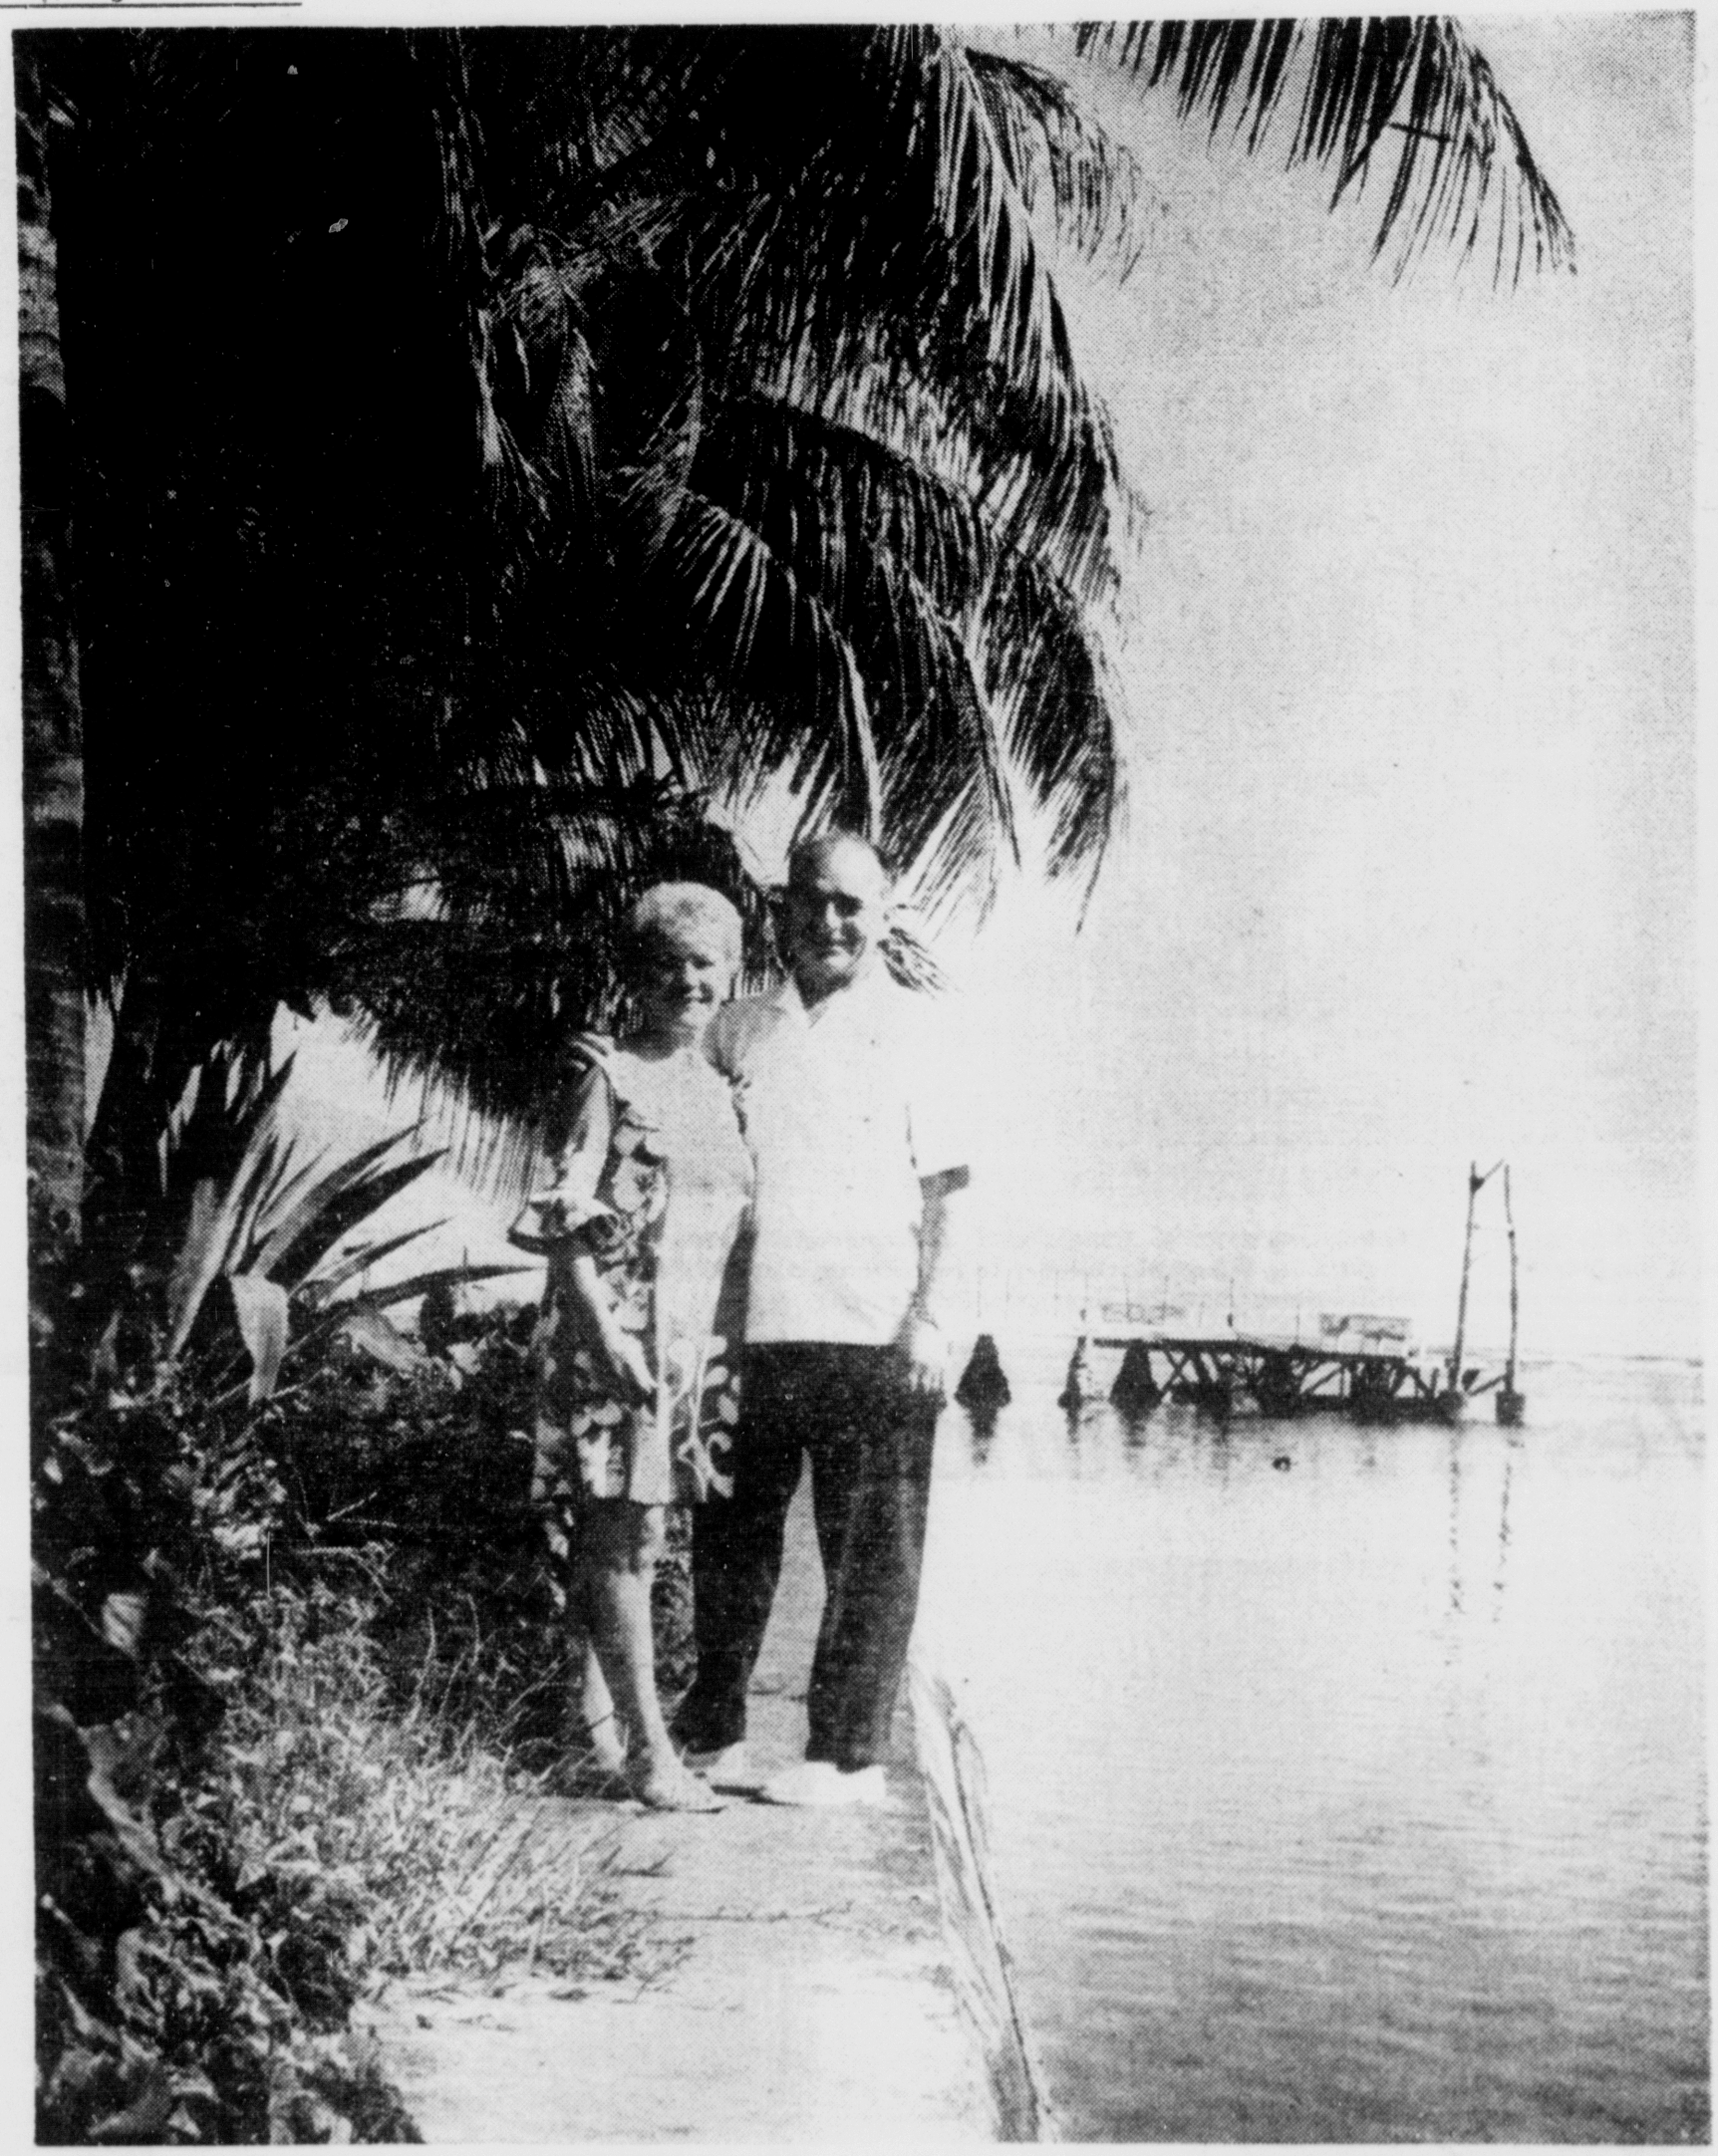
AND TIPPING is a custom unknown in the islands. It would violate the spirit of hospitality.

Despite the side trips to other islands and the hospitality offered them by their new Tahitian friends, the Aquilinos found some time for just relaxing on the beach, for swimming in the warm waters, and for shopping.

"The Polynesians have a saying that if you think you can leave and forget their islands and set sail out to sea, the south wind will eventually bring you back," Mrs. Aquilino says.

For the San Anselmo pair, the saying has the ring of truth.

"For we are definitely going back," says Mrs. Aquilino, "even if we have to pay our own expenses next time."



WATER, exotic trees and shrubs, beaches, friendly people, unusual customs — all went together to make their trip to Tahiti an unforgettable experience for Mr. and Mrs. Lou Aquilino.

PUERTO VALLARTA'S POPULARITY

Was It The Burtons Or Natural Beauty?

The Travel Pages

The once-sleepy little village of Puerto Vallarta, Mexico, has come a long way since Liz and Dick frolicked on its pearly white beaches and gulped beer at its sidewalk cafes.

Four years ago the picturesque village of 15,000 on Mexico's Pacific Coast was chosen as the setting for the film "Night of the Iguana," in which Richard Burton starred.

Despite public controversy over her divorce from singer Eddie Fisher, Elizabeth Taylor followed Burton to the remote village where she married him after a courtship that put Puerto Vallarta on the map.

"THE VAUDEVILLE they starred in made people sit up and take notice of us," according to Ruben Miller, vice chairman of the festival committee set up to celebrate Puerto Vallarta's elevation to city status this year.

Mexican Tourism Department officials differ.

They credit Puerto Vallarta's sudden popularity to its natural beauty, its tepid waters and sparkling beaches, its coast which is scalloped with romantic coves where one can indulge in the almost forgotten pleasure of bathing at his own private beach, and its cool, tropical nights.

WHETHER THE Burtons or its own native beauty gets the main credit, that Puerto Vallarta has been discovered is without question.

Six airlines now serve it and two more (Bonanza Air Lines, of Phoenix, Ariz., is one) have just been granted permission to fly the route. The airport is presently being expanded to handle international flights.

Four large hotels are scheduled for completion by 1970.

Perhaps the most important improvement in terms of facilitating access to the port will be the completion of the Tepic-Compostela-Puerto Vallarta Highway. Acapulco was better known for its fish than for its beaches before completion of the highway from Mexico City 10 years ago.

INVESTMENT IN Puerto Vallarta now totals more than eight million dollars. Construction marches forward on all sides. At present, there are 1,100 hotel rooms and this number will be increased by 35 per cent by the end of the year.

The people of Puerto Vallarta, who seldom had visitors until a few years ago, have "seen" their peace and tranquility disappear.

An average of 140,000 tourists a year, mostly Americans, visit Puerto Vallarta. Almost 90 per cent of them travel by plane.

WITH THE NEW roads and the expansion of air service, public works officials now predict that the annual tourist figure will soon be upped to 340,000. It helps that about half of the population speaks English as a second language.

Puerto Vallarta was founded in 1851 and got its name from the first governor and noted jurist of the state of Jalisco, Ignacio Luis Vallarta.

It is situated on an irregular mountainous coast.

The streets are cobblestoned and the facades painted white to maintain the rustic charm. And not suprisingly the port's American colony is fondly referred to as "Gringo Gulch."

COBBLESTONED STREETS help to retain much of the old rustic charm of the Mexican village of Puerto Vallarta, despite the influx of tourists who have discovered it as a seaside resort.

IT MAY HAVE BEEN Liz and Richard Burton who first brought Puerto Vallarta to outside attention, but today it's the sandy beaches that are its chief attraction.

A Taste Of Rural England Away From City's Hustle

British-bound travelers with a taste for city life have no difficulty in selecting their principal destination.

It's London, of course, a world hub of cultural, historical and entertainment attractions.

Then, if there is time left over, on to Edinburgh or Belfast.

BUT WHAT about those who would prefer to sample Britain's more restful country life?

One suggestion currently very much in favor is the Lake Country or the Wordsworth Country. Lake Windermere and all the other lakes around it, in their beautiful mountain setting, are beginning to exert a strong pull upon Americans, just as they have upon British vacationists for decades.

But there are other possiblities.

For instance, the Cotswolds represent rural Britain at its best.

THERE IN green, rolling hills are tucked quiet, picturesque villages of the honey-colored Cotswold stone, centuries old.

Two favorite stopping places are the Lygon Arms in Broadway, labeled "England's ideal country inn," and the Noel Arms in Chipping Campden, an old coaching inn with a rich history. Both offer comfortable accommodations and excellent cuisine.

Both Chipping Campden and Broadway are beautiful villages, the former perhaps the more "unspoiled" of the two.

AND THE villages of the Cotswolds are so close together that it is possible to walk between many of them.

Stratford-on-Avon and Oxford are both very near, only short automobile and bus rides from the Northern Cotswolds.

Even those for whom a trip to England must and does mean London, the nearby Cotswolds still offer a superb resting point after the excitement and activity of the big city.

Reporters Place Paris Impasse In A Different Light

THE SECRET SEARCH FOR PEACE IN VIETNAM by David Kraslow and Stuart H. Loory; Random House, 240 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Over the past four years, there have been repeated hints by President Lyndon B. Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk that the U.S. government was actively seeking peace in Vietnam but being rebuffed by Hanoi.

Most of these allusions have been a bit obscure. Some, however, have seemed very plain, as when President Johnson told the National Legislative Conference at San Antonio, Tex., last Sept. 29: "As we have told Hanoi time and time again, the heart of the matter really is this: the United States is willing to stop all aerial and naval bombardment of North Vietnam when this will lead promptly to productive discussions . . . But Hanoi has not accepted any of these proposals."

David Kraslow and Stuart H. Loory, both reporters in the Washington bureau of the Los Angeles Times, have gone behind the curtain of secrecy drawn over attempts to negotiate peace in Vietnam to learn who really has tried to negotiate, what the responses of Hanoi and Washington have been.

In "The Secret Search for Peace in Vietnam" they detail the frustrating story of these attempts. And not all the frustration has been Washington's.

The book, available both in hardcover and as a $1.95 Vintage paperback, gives a clue to why the talks in Paris appear to be getting nowhere.

Hanoi's position throughout, as repeatedly stated both publicly and privately to those seeking to set up negotiations, has been that the United States assumed an aggressor's role by bombing North Vietnam, and that the bombing must cease before there can by any negotiations.

By going to Paris while the bombing continued, the North Vietnamese appeared to make a major retreat from this position. But the subsequent weeks have shown that they merely adopted a new position from which to reiterate it.

The United States government, according to Kraslow and Loory, is thoroughly aware of this North Vietnamese position — and that no discussions can proceed until the bombing stops.

And this puts the Paris impasse in a rather different light.

Satire misfires

Targets Are Too Tired

THE NATIONAL STANDARD by Gerald Jay Goldberg; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, 312 pages, $6.95. Reviewed by Gary Tischler.

This first novel tries to do old Henry James one better by applying Max Schulman satire to a portrayal of a frontal attack upon innocent European decadence by a pair of lunatic American go-getters.

The trouble with Schulman satire is that it is no satire at all.

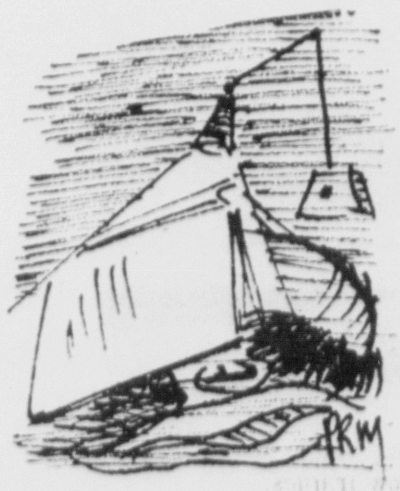
The situations, names and characters may result in loud guffaws but they suspend belief, hitting no targets but tired targets, too engrossed in their own sense of ridicule.

Goldberg attacks and hones in on such already belabored targets as Jewish mothers, money, rich, sexy old ladies, militarism, campus stuffiness and the draft. It is all very funny but it raises nobody's eyebrows, except perhaps in Boston.

The opening of the novel is promising as an eastern school prepares for graduation, and receives the blessings of an old alumnus wrapped in mumbling cliches. The speaker is time and again interrupted, finally by a army major who shoves him aside to announce that the entire class has been drafted. Bravely, he delivers the parting shot to the class of 1968.

"Buy Savings Bonds," he shouts on the run.

Although the remainder of the book will make you snicker and giggle, that is the high point of the novel.



An Indiana Editor Tests The Winds Blowing To Right

THE FUTURE OF CONSERVATISM by M. Stanton Evans; Holt, Rinehart and Winston, by Norman Moser.

The author, editor of the Indianapolis News and an editor and regular contributor to the National Review, rightly observes that there is a strong conservative groundswell prevalent in the country at the moment, and assesses the Republican Party's chances of seizing on the currents with an eye toward achieving a major political power-shift.

Even Evans cannot help noticing the severe internal crisis. Like everyone else, he's busy hatching up plans.

Apparently he has access to the facilities of trade book publishers, though from reading his book you wouldn't suspect it. This is the dullest writing I've read all year.

Naturally, in all these pages he strikes a good effect once or twice.

One of the striking aspects of the urban crisis he observes is a certain shying away from involvement with the federal government and a tendency towards regionalism. But he makes hardly anything of these observations, which somehow sound flippant in the context.

He also observes that our parties are misnamed, and nowadays practically meaningless in the sense of representing clear-cut tendencies. Evans would have the parties called Conservative, Liberal, Progressive or some such. This is rather interesting, but as he develops it, it's obvious that mostly it would benefit the schemes he's hatching up.

M. STANTON EVANS
A GOP opportunity

"The Future of Conservatism" passes for a realistic appraisal of the "prospects for conservative political success," according to the blurb-writer. But somehow it sounds at this peculiar moment in history like a tract for Ronald Reagan, the man conservatives hope takes over the mantle (and the following) of Barry Goldwater. Evans ignores, of course, Reagan's antics out here with his budget juggling in instances like mental hospital funds, and several fiascoes involving University of California at Berkeley, such as the firing of Clark Kerr.

But Evans is a champion juggler himself of facts and polls. Meanwhile the issues and ideas he so casually plays with go undefined and unexplored.

He is convinced that the "real America" is in places like Indiana and Iowa — nowhere else.

The Conflict That Brought California Into The Union

THE WAR WITH MEXICO by Donald Barr Chidsey; Crown, 169 pages, $3.95. Reviewed by Bryce W. Anderson.

Much denounced by opponents of imperialism is the United States' war with Mexico, which added California — among other states—to the Union.

Imperialism it was, but conscienceless overwhelming of a small, weak nation by a large, strong one it was not. Donald Barr Chidsey brings this out in his lively account of "The War With Mexico."

When it came to political chicanery and double-dealing, the U.S. had no one to compare with Gen. Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, the off-again, on-again dictator of Mexico. As for strength, the Mexican army was easily, numerically, three times that of the United States when Gen. Zachary Taylor took his little force across the Rio Grande.

The war was short but bloody. Chidsey's account of it is brief and lively.

"The War With Mexico" is the 10th volume of a series in which Chidsey appears to be working his way from the Declaration of Independence down to date. They are all breezy, reasonably accurate, and a pleasant way to learn American history.

Solomon And Throngs

LOVE AND WISDOM by Richarl Hpbler; Crown, 345 pages, $5.95. Reviewed by Laurel Shapiro.

King Solomon, in all his Old Testament glory, is the subject of Richard Hubler's new historical novel.

As Bible readers will recall, it was Solomon, famed for his wisdom, who built the temple that his father, King David, had planned, and succeeded in uniting his people in worship there.

According to Hubler, Solomon was nevertheless an earthbound, sophisticated potentate who heartily enjoyed all the trappings and pomp of his exalted position. Hubler brings into play many scenes of grandeur and sensuality, as a cast of thousands goes through the paces. The characterizations, except for Solomon himself, are standard types and the action is sometimes perfunctory and forced.

Still, there is much interesting lore here.

Journal Staffers Put Out A Queen-Sized Cookbook

LADIES' HOME JOURNAL ADVENTURES IN COOKING by editors of Ladies' Home Journal; Prentice-Hall, 383 pages, $11.95. Reviewed by Maxine Keown.

This has to be one of the big cookbooks of 1968, both in sheer bulk and in quality of its contents, and it is certain to be a frontrunner among the gift volumes when holiday shopping begins.

The editors of the Journal have gone to great effort to produce a comprehensive and practical book that is both a collection of recipes and an instruction manual in the selection and preparation of foods.

Incorporated into the text are special chapters on gourmet or international dishes, on party-giving and on advice for the newlywed bride.

Along with these go the standard chapters — on hearty main dishes, on fruit and vegetable side dishes, on baked goods.

Interspersed in this material is specific information for dieters, on hot weather cooking, lunch boxes, wild game, pickling, cake decoration, a guide to seasonings, holiday menus, kitchen appliances and utensils, cooking terms, beverages and many, many other such varied and useful topics.

The large, attractively designed cookbook has been illustrated with tempting color photographs.

Ladies' Home Journal editors obviously felt the prestige of their publication was at stake. The resulting book can serve only to enhance the magazine's reputation.

Mankind's Gravest Problem Defined

By DON KEOWN

THE POPULATION BOMB by Dr. Paul R. Ehrlich; Ballantine, 224 pages, paperback, 95 cents.

What is mankind's direst problem?

Not, if you believe Dr. Paul R. Ehrlich, director of graduate study at Stanford University's Department of Biological Sciences, the war, bigotry, poverty, racial strife, restless youth, the education gap, crime in the streets, or even the possibility that Richard M. Nixon may become our next president.

All these are symptoms or consequences of a basic problem — overpopulation.

Unless drastic and unlikely steps are taken to curb man's tendency toward rabbit-like procreation, both that fundamental problem and all the attendant symptoms are certain to grow worse — much worse.

That is the sobering message from Dr. Ehrlich's "The Population Bomb," a real shocker published first as a Ballantine paperback and now also available as a $2.95 Sierra Club hardcover book.

World population is now doubling itself every 37 years, Dr. Ehrlich reports. Even without further acceleration, that rate would mean 60 million billion peoples on earth in another 900 years, or 100 people for every square yard of the planet's surface including the seas. The human pyramids without which no Boy Scout circus is complete would at last have a practical application. Or perhaps people could burrow underground and imitate the rabbit in their habitation as well as their reproduction habits.

However, man will not have to wait nearly that long, Dr. Ehrlich assures us, before experiencing the consequences of a runaway birthrate. They are being seen today in the hunger of many lands, the social turmoil of congested cities, the pollution of air, water and soil, the dissipation of natural resources and man's increasing irritability with his own kind — in noise, clutter and disease, in loss of personal freedom, in the crowding out of other forms of life.

Not too far ahead, in the 1970s, Dr. Ehrlich predicts, are far worse things including terrible famines, nature's brutal way of undoing the damage man has done to the balance between population and planet when he refuses to employ gentler methods.

To defuse the population explosion by increasing the death rate through famine, epidemics or warfare, rather than by curtailing the birthrate, is a savage and senseless solution, the writer makes clear. And it will be a belated solution, as well. For it will not occur until man has already so overcrowded himself that life has become an ordeal rather than an adventure.

Dr. Ehrlich points out also the limitations of the "increased food production" solution cited by unrealistic optimists, and he rejects outright such fantasies as the shipping of our surplus people to distant planets.

But he does have some definite ideas on how to bring the birthrate into balance with the death rate. His most promising plans, he admits, are the least likely to be implemented. Such drastic proposals as a reversal of our tax policies to assess the rearers of large families the hardest, the legalization of voluntary sterilization and abortions, the subsidization of adoptions, mandatory sex education in the schools including discussion of birth control need and techniques, a dispelling of the old belief that capitalism (or communism) is fueled and strengthened by an ever-growing population — none of these is likely to come about in the near enough future to be effective.

Pope Paul VI, since the publication of the book, has already dashed the doctor's faint hopes for a liberalization of the official Roman Catholic attitude toward birth control.

Dr. Ehrlich does have some more hopeful proposals to at lease shorten the odds on mass suicide by humanity, including active prosletyzing on behalf of birth control, and a new look at our foreign aid program to ration help only to those where it will be both needed and effective.

The United States, as the world leader, must set the example, he declares, and give up its ideas that the start should be made in the underdeveloped countries. Nor should a current decline in the U.S. birthrate be regarded as anything but temporary, certain to be sharply reversed as more and more post-World War II babies reach the age of parenthood.

Dr. Ehrlich is resigned to being labeled an alarmist. But alarm, he feels, is a mild reaction to the catastrophic conditions he sees ahead, unless peoples of the world shake off their smug complacency, ego gratification and ignorance, all of which contribute to "the population bomb."

His book is a call upon its readers to join the author in his alarm and to help direct public attention to the tragedy of a situation in which a world, with more than half its people already living in misery, is bringing still more and more babies into being to struggle with and to worsen those conditions.

The publishers hail the book as equal in importance to Rachel Carson's "Silent Spring" and Ralph Nader's "Unsafe at Any Speed." Publishers are not given to understatements in publicizing their books, but that could be one.

MARIN'S EXPERT on things semantic, S. I. Hayakawa, is the editor of Funk & Wagnall's "Modern Guide to Synonyms and Related Words."

Monumental is an adjective frequently applied to such reference works, and it is entirely apt here.

The book goes beyond the Thesaurus, itself invaluable, to not only list synonyms, but to define them as well. Nuances in differences as well as similarities are pinpointed in brief essays that direct the user toward the expression which most exactly conveys his meaning.

In addition to 6,000 synonyms and closely related words, antonyms are also listed.

The accomplishment of Professor Hayakawa and his coworkers is most impressive, and the $8.95 price set for the 726 page book makes it a value that no one who deals with language, written or spoken, and who takes pride in his handling of that much abused tool, can afford to pass up.

THE ART Linkletter brand of humor irritates some and delights others.

We're not among the delighted, but there seems to be enough of them to provide a ready audience for a steady stream of books of quips and anecdotes.

That membership will no doubt be charmed by the television personality's latest, "I Wish I'd Said That" (Doubleday). The small book is subtitled "My Favorite Ad-Libs of All Time." It is standard Linkletter stuff, the remarks, retorts, jibes and asides of the famous, from Groucho Marx to Oscar Wilde. Some of them are quite witty, some pretty witless. But generally, it's an improvement upon Linkletter's prior collections of cute saying and missayings from the mouths of children.

EVERY NORMAL human being is a born artist, says artist-author Ray Barrio in his how-to-paint book "Experiments In Modern Art" (Sterling, $5.95). By describing how to experiment with modern techniques of abstract art, Barrio hopes to dramatize the magic and spirit of all art.

With the help of excellent photographs of art in the making, brush drawings, a number of colored reproductions, and clear, simple writing, the author explores basic principles of brush painting, the use of acrylics, construction of wood reliefs and pebbly mosaics, as well as instructions for making quick, easy and inexpensive shadow frames.

PICTURE MISS SEETON by Heron Carvic; Harper & Row, 209 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

Have we here another Miss Marple?

Quite possibly. Unquestionably, Emily Seeton, English school teacher, is one of the most interesting figures to join the crime fiction scene in some time. And first novelist Heron Carvic, a British product, naturally, is a more than promising detective story writer.

The scene for "Picture Miss Seeton" opens in London, but soon shifts to an English village where, armed only with her umbrella, Emily Seeton does battle, often unwittingly, with the members of an illicit drug ring. The result is a total rout for the underworld, accomplished with considerable verve and humor.

If there is a mistake on Carvic's part, it is that he presents Miss Seeton as a trifle too naive, almost downright stupid. But she has offsetting, rescuing traits of character. And the supporting cast is a most interesting assortment of English types as well.

Most certainly, Carvic will be back with more suspense novels. And hopefully, Emily Seeton and umbrella will figure prominently in them.

The Circumstantial Kind Of Evidence Is Sometimes Best

THE FABRIC OF GUILT by Eugene B. Block; Doubleday, 215 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Don Keown.

That circumstantial evidence, by its very nature, is a kind of second-class evidence when introduced into judicial proceedings is a pretty much disabused idea by now.

But in case you are still harboring such a misconception, Eugene B. Block, former San Francisco newspaper man now executive director of the Jewish Community Relations Council in that city, attempts to set the record straight with his "Fabric of Guilt."

The book is a collection of true crime stories, most, but not all, of them murder cases.

What these cases have in common is that all the culprits were convicted entirely or largely on the basis of circumstantial evidence.

His point, according to Block, a veteran miner of the true crime veins, is that circumstantial evidence can be as reliable and as effective in the solution and prosecution of a criminal case as the seemingly more sound direct (or eye-witness) type of evidence. Sometimes more so.

Block points out what every veteran crime reporter and others intimately involved with the courtroom well know: That eye-witnesses can be notoriously untrustworthy in recalling and relating their observations.

Certainly the percentage of innocent men convicted on the basis of faulty direct evidence is at least as high as that for erroneous convictions from circumstantial evidence.

The cases Block recounts are the usual mixture of the familiar and the unfamiliar, the former including the conviction of Burton W. (Bud) Abbott for the murder of Berkeley teen-ager Stephanie Bryant. Another of that stripe is the case of Dr. Carl Coppolini. Other crimes go further back in history.

Block tells his stories well enough, although it seemed to us he was not quite up to the high standard he set in some of his earlier books. Occasionally, he lapses into the hackneyed language of the true crime magazine writer.

Buffs, however, will appreciate the book. For others, it is hardly an opportune time for recalling past violence. It is too much on our minds right now in the present tense.

FLEXIBILITY OF COMPONENTS for the home music system. If your home is already well furnished, choosing a stereo music system may well be a problem of where to put it. Or it may be the problem of finding furniture that will blend in with the existing room decor. A component home music system need not require extra furniture. It may be possible to place the items on bookshelves or into existing wall cabinets.

The basic components generally used in a stereo home music system consist of an FM stereo tuner amplifier all-in-one unit (some models include AM), a record changer, and two loudspeaker systems. Transistorization and modern technology have reduced the size of each of these items. The tuner amplifier or receiver, and the record changer are placed at the same location; however, the loudspeaker systems need not be placed near these components. In fact, the loudspeakers may be placed in a different room.

In many installations the receiver and changer are placed in a closet and the two loudspeaker systems are placed in the living room. In other installations the receiver and changer are placed in modular fashion in the den with a set of speakers in the den and another set of speakers in the living room. Sometimes the components can be placed into existing pieces of furniture.

The flexibility allows additions and changes to be made to the home music system without requiring the trading-in, at a great loss, of the music system. A tape deck for making stereo recordings and playing back stereo recordings can be added at any time. All that is required is the plugging in of a few cables. Loudspeakers may be added for the patio or for other rooms. Location of the components can be changed easily. The units can be built into a music wall. If the room decor is changed, the music system can be installed into custom furniture to complement or blend in with the room furniture.

Another important aspect of this flexibility is the ability to make changes of individual items as better products are created.

For the finest sound and greatest flexibility choose components. Visit us soon.

ON SITTING IN THE PRESIDENT'S OFFICE AGAINST THE DOOR

I'm going to hide my head
Between two history books—
I don't want mace in my face.

Somebody throw us a lifeboat—
We're bobbing like corks
In the tears of gassed-eyes.

I've scraped my shin
In the tree of knowledge.

We're not high in education;
Night-stick splinters
Still pierce our rears.

Anyway, anyway, anyway!
How do you handcuff a thought?
Can you fingerprint and book an idea?
Or with us will all books perish?

I can't stop thinking—
Must we bicker about it
In public?
You say, You say we are the children of flowers,

Our paths are still and passive,
We linger in the shade, under the redwoods,
Among the ferns.
Find us! Find us! And follow our scent
For if you cannot find us, you may die a little.
We did not grow there to sit upon your grave.

RICHARD STRAUSS: Horn Concerti Nos. 1 and 2; FRANZ STRAUSS: Horn Concerto Opus. 8 — Barry Tuckwell/London Symphony/Kertesz-London CS 6519.

This is the first in stereo for the beautiful Strauss horn concerti, and the first ever for the delightful little concerto composed by Richard's father — written for the old-type instrument using crooks and no valves. They abound in hunting calls a la Weber and are full of melodious themes.

Tuckwell comes much closer to the definitive recorded performances of the late Dennis Brain in the Richard Strauss concerti than any other horn soloist has approached that master in tackling the famous Mozart horn concerti.

Fine rich stereo.

PLAY BACH Volume 5 — Jacques Loussier Trio — London PS 524:

In the spate of "swinging the classics" music which has appeared of late, the wonderful work of this French pianist has been somewhat ignored.

Although in his early albums he changed very few notes of the Bach originals, relying only on the rhythmic treatment for improvisation, this LP shows a great deal of jazz interpretation and some frequently far out solos.

The entire "Toccata No. 4" of Bach takes up side 1, and the major item on side 2 is the 12-minute "Chorale No. 1" — an unlikely selection for "swinging," but quite effective nonetheless.

PROKOFIEFF: Scythian Suite; The Prodigal Son — L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande/Ansermet — London CS 6538:

The savagely primitive "Scythian Suite" music is about the wildest stuff Prokofieff ever penned, and even today shocks many listeners. Ansermet predictably plays up the melodic elements, such as they are.

"The Prodigal Son" will be frequently familiar to those who know the composer's "Fourth Symphony," for some of the music is identical. The further we move away from the so-called "modern" period of music (as opposed to the contemporary period in which we are now), the more stature the figure of Prokofieff seems to gain.

RAVEL: L'Enfant et les Sortileges — Suzanne Danco/Hugues Cuenod/Flore Wend/Geneva Motet Choir/L'Orchestre de la Suisse Romande/Ansermet — London Richmond SR 33086:

This is one of the most fascinating little operas ever composed, and one of Ravel's greatest achievements.

The story of the ill-behaved child upon whom the furniture and animals gang up to teach a lesson is magically set to music. One of the funniest (and also most realistic) moments in music is the cat fight.

The bargain price of this reissue gem makes it a sure thing for Ravel fans, opera fans and/or Ansermet fans.

SMETANA: Festive Symphony — Czech Philharmonic/Sejna — Crossroads 22 16 0192:

This is the first recording ever of a major 19th Century symphony which deserves better attention by far.

Its problem was that Smetana used prominently the melody of the Austrian national anthem in his music (also used by Haydn in one of his string quartets). At the time, there was strong feeling in Czechoslovakia against the Austrians.

This is a big work in cyclical form bearing the stamp of Beethoven and Schubert. Some sections remind one of the composer's great cycle of tone poems, "My Country," (which incidentally will be presented by the San Francisco Symphony next season).

PROKOFIEFF: Summer Day Suite; A Winter Camp Fire — Prague Chamber Orchestra/Prague Radio Symphony/Alois Klima — Crossroads 22 16 0182:

These are two lightweight musical suites for children, with short descriptive movements — some as brief as one minute. It is a tribute to Prokofieff's genius that never does simple-mindedness ruin his work.

Why doesn't this music get a bit of the attention so over-lavished on that blasted Peter and his wolf?

A Welcome Mat For The Birds

Garden Page

Making A Yard Attractive To Our Feathered Friends

Almost certainly, Marin County has more than its share of birdwatchers.

Which speaks well for Marintes, since the warmer, finer attributes of human beings seem to be linked to an interest in birds.

Really dedicated birdwatchers are the ones who don hiking boots, grab binoculars and field manual, and head for the nearest sanctuary, woods or open field.

But there's another kind of birdwatcher — the kind who goes out of his way to attract birds into his yard, and then observes them there.

HOW DO YOU go about it?

For one thing, you include in your landscape such structures as birdhouses, birdbaths and feeders.

Not all species of birds will nest in a birdhouse, but a good many will. Virtually all enjoy a bath. And your feeder can offer a variety of foods — grains, seeds, suet, bread crumbs, etc. —that appeal to different kinds of birds.

But your choice of plantings can also be a major factor in the success or failure of your bird-attracting campaign.

GENERALLY, BIRDS likes trees, thickets, shrubs and heavy vines that afford them protection from predators and shelter for their nests. Flowering quince, for example, is a perfect choice, with its many branches and spur-like thorns.

It's attractive as well.

Such annuals as marigolds, gaillardia, zinnia, forget-me-not and the sunflower (which grows at least as well in Marin as it does in Kansas) produce seeds that many birds regard as a treat.

Others prefer the berries that come from such shrubs as the pyracantha. Robins, for instance, find them irresistible.

Marin nurserymen report that of all the birds, the tiny hummingbird is unquestionably the favorite of Marin gardeners. "We have more inquiries about how to attract hummingbirds than any other bird," says one.

THE BEST ANSWER is through a combination of hummingbird feeders and plants, such as fuchsia or coral bells, that produce tubular blooms.

Apparently the flowers are needed to lure the hummingbirds to the yard. Then they soon discover and visit and revisit the feeders.

Th hummingbirds as well as the larger birds repay the gardener for his efforts with unending entertainment with their plumage, flight and feeding habits and their singing.

But a good many species also provide the additional service of grubbing for insect and larvae pests and of feasting on weed seeds.

In a culture that is leaving less and less wild space open to our bird and animal friends, it is increasingly important that Californians reserve some space within their yards for the feathered ones. It is our way of recompensing them, at least in part, for the toll that progress has taken of their numbers.

Important Quality

In selecting your roses for floral arrangements, don't overlook the important quality of fragrance.

Wall-Toppers And Eye-Pleasers

Because a good many Marin homesites are hillside lots, Marinites, more often than most, encounter the problem of selecting the proper planting to top a retaining wall.

Fortunately, there are many good trailing plants to fulfill this need.

Such pleasing cascades serve to continue naturally the flow of land from one elevation to another.

COLORFUL TRAILING effect may be attained with such annuals as alyssum (white, pink or purple), lobelia, petunias and portulacas.

Less frequently thought of is the catnip with its pleasant scent, gray foliage and bluish flowers.

Ivy geraniums will do the job and do it well, in a wide color choice and with an impressive demonstration of durability.

For a shady site, trailing periwinkles are fine wall-toppers. A number of succulent-type groundcovers will also do the job.

STAR JASMINE will spread and tumble over and down a wall attractively. Trailing lantanas are in a class by themselves when it comes to blooming ability, but should be confined to frost-free locations.

Some other good bets for the top of a retaining wall include the creeping or trailing manzanita, trailing rosemary, rockrose and parrot's beak or lotus.

Small wonder that Marinites are not perplexed for long when it comes to finding a planting that will turn a retaining wall from a harsh obstruction into a soft, natural contour.

A CHECKLIST FOR GARDENERS OF MARIN

Here is the Marin gardener's checklist for the coming week:

✓ Deep watering is essential in August to keep lawns and shrubs happy. Hand-held sprinklers just won't do, especially in 1968. You might do well to look into the advisability of spiking or coring packed earth so that the water can penetrate.

✓ Many Indica azaleas are getting set for fall bloom. Be sure to water them frequently and feed them this month, probably with an acid fertilizer. However, if blooming prospects are not up to your expectations, you might substitute a non-nitrogen fertilizer.

✓ Plant berried shrubs such as holly, pyracantha and cotoneaster for fall and winter color.

HOW LONG CAN YOU STORE LIQUID FISH?

A gardener wants to know how long liquid fish fertilizer remains effective, after its purchase.

And a Marin nurseryman answers: "Almost indefinitely."

But he hastens to advise that after the fertilizer has set for a considerable time, it should be shaken very vigorously before being used.

As with paint, a sediment settles in the bottom of the container in time. And it must be put back into the emulsion if the fertilizer is to have any potency.

Keep Pesticides Out Of Reach

"Empty" containers of pesticides often have enough poison left in them to harm children and animals, warns Dr. Blair Bailey, pesticide safety specialist for the University of California's Agricultural Extension Service. To safely dispose of such containers, he suggests:

Rinse them out, and then pour contents in a hole in the ground in an area at some distance from valuable plants.

Break the container if it is glass, or puncture if plastic or metal, so it cannot be reused. Then bury the container or wrap it in an old newspaper and put it in the trash can. Do not puncture or burn aersol type spray bombs. They may appear to be empty but still have enough pressure to explode.

NO PLACE — but no place — affords children more summer-time enjoyment than a sandbox in the backyard.

Sandbox Is Still 'In' With The Little Ones

They'll Like It All The More If Dad Has Built It For Them

Generations of American children have reveled in the fun of a backyard sandbox.

They remain today firmly entrenched with boys and girls as a favorite place for play.

The box will hold a special attraction for the youngsters if it has been built by Dad himself. And he can do it easily with help of some proper plans.

Send 10 cents to American Plywood Association, 119 A Street, Tacoma, Wash., 98401, and ask for Plan No. 54-440.

The product is strong, roomy and portable, with a canvas top for shade and built-in storage space.

The sandbox is made of exterior-type plywood with 100 per cent waterproof glue. It can be finished in a variety of colors to match the house or to fit into any scheme of backyard decor.

The storage compartment with hinged lids is an ideal place in which to keep outdoor toys.

TRAIN TABLE PLAN IS FREE

Get more pleasure out of that model train set.

A free plan shows how dad can build a model train table so equipment can be operated more comfortably and safely than on a floor. Wiring concealed under a peg-board surface makes for easier setup and better appearance. The plan also shows construction of a display panel for extra equipment.

For a copy of Plan AE -703, send a postcard to Masonite, Box B, Chicago, Ill., 60690.

A HOBBY WALL can become a striking feature of any den or family room, with the use of pre-finished, perforated hardboard in an attractive woodgrain. This one is a "his" — pipe collection — and "hers" — crewel, needlepoint and antique miniature sewing machine — display.

Marin MAGAZINE Weekly TV Log

DEFENDANT JOSE FERRER, left, confers with his attorney, E. G. Marshall, in a scene from ABC-TV's "A Case of Libel," a court room drama centering around the story of an ex-war correspondent who brings suit for libel against a malicious newspaper columnist. The drama will be given a repeat presentation Sunday at 9 p.m. on Channels 7 and 11. In the background are Christopher Wines, left, and John Beal, who appear as consulting lawyers for the plaintiff.

THE TWO STARS of the 1931 movie, "The Man Who Came Back," Dorothy MacKaill and George O'Brien, were reunited in Hawaii where she lives and where he was on vacation. They are now 65 and 69 respectively. Make you feel old?

Whatever Happened To George O'Brien?

By BOB THOMAS

HONOLULU (AP) — It was enough to gladden the heart of a film buff: George O'Brien and Dorothy MacKaill — together again for the first time since "The Man Who Came Back."

Many a middle-aged movie fan will remember the 1931 movie and will recall the blonde beauty of Miss MacKaill and the muscular handsomeness of San Francisco-born George O'Brien.

FOR THOSE who like to play the "whatever happened to—?" game, it can be reported that Miss MacKaill lives alone at the Royal Hawaiian Hotel and likes it. She is still as bright and bouncy as when she was co-starring with Jack Mulhall and couldn't care less about an acting career. The record books indicate she is 65, but her daily swims in the Waikiki surf have helped erase a decade or two from her appearance.

The George O'Brien story requires a bit more telling. He was in Hawaii on vacation with his daughter Orin, bassist with the New York Philharmonic, and after reminiscing about the golden Hollywood days with Miss MacKaill, he talked to a reporter about his long and varied career.

O'Brien was the athlete son of the police chief of San Francisco.

"IT WAS through my dad that I got into the picture business," the actor remarked. "Tom Mix came to San Francisco to appear at a rodeo for the policemen's benefit fund. I had worked out with police horses since I was a small kid, and Mix was impressed with the way I rode in the rodeo. He told me to look him up if I ever came to Hollywood."

Later O'Brien went south to seek a career as a cameraman, but found Mix was out of town. He talked himself into a job as assistant cameraman at Fox, then got into stunt work. The big break came in 1924, when John Ford picked him to star in the classic western, "The Iron Horse."

O'Brien became one of the leading outdoor stars of the 1920s and successfully bridged the talkies. Among his notable films: "Sunrise," "Noah's Ark," "Lone Star Ranger," "Riders of the Purple Sage," "Daniel Boone," "The Last Trail," "The Painted Desert," "Stage to Chino."

HE HAD SERVED a hitch in the Navy as a sailor, and in 1940 the Navy asked him to re-enlist as an officer — "We figure your example would help recruitment," he was told.

Although he was earning big money co-producing his own Westerns, O'Brien couldn't resist the offer. He served almost six years and found he had to build his acting career all over again. His old pal Ford cast him in such films as "Fort Apache" and "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

In 1955, the Navy again sought O'Brien's services as an officer with NATO. Later he served in President Dwight D. Eisenhower's people-to-people campaign in Southeast Asia. "It wasn't really James Bond stuff, but I did have interesting experiences."

IT WAS DURING that service that he almost went blind. "I got an eye infection on the border of Laos and Cambodia," he said, "and being the old-time hero, I just passed it off as a minor matter. You know we used to get shot and say, 'He only creased me'."

A few years ago he underwent a corneal transplant and now his vision is normal.

O'Brien retired as a captain in 1962 and once more returned to acting — again for Ford in "Cheyenne Autumn." Now 69 and as vigorous as in his sagebrush days, he is eager to work in films.

"But there's no pressure. Thank God I saved my money," he added.

HE HAS BEEN divorced for 20 years from his one-time co-star and mother of his three children, Marguerite Churchill.

"She's living in Rome and is just as beautiful as ever," said the actor. "Neither of us has remarried and I can't really tell you why we separated. Maybe some day—."

Some folks think they won't be comfortable on Sealy's Extra Firm Posturepedic. That's why Sealy makes a Gently Firm Posturepedic, too. Fact is, both styles of Posturepedic support are comfortable: not too soft, because that way you can get a morning backache. Not too hard, because who can sleep on a rock-hard mattress? Sealy wants you to wake up happy.

Star Of New Hawaii Police Series Is Confident Of Sucess Of Show

HONOLULU (AP) — Never was an actor more confident than Jack Lord: "This show is going to make it; I don't see how it can fail."

CBS appears to share his confidence, since it is pouring millions into a unique venture called "Hawaii Five-O." The new series is cops-and-robbers stuff, but actor Lord claims it is something more than Dragnet, Hawaiian style.

"THIS SHOW has quality," he declared in his air-conditioned trailer-bus on location in a suburb of Honolulu. "The proof of that is the number of CBS affiliated stations that signed up to take 'Hawaii Five-O.' We showed the pilot film to them, and 206 ordered the show, the biggest number in CBS history.

"A show like Carol Burnett's has only 163."

What does "Hawaii Five-O" have to dazzle the case-hardened station owners? Scenery galore, for one thing. The company has filmed in all parts of this highly photogenic isle. Each segment features from 35 to 40 different locations, virtually almost all of them real-life sets.

ONLY TWO Hollywood-like sets are used; a makeshift studio in Pearl City contains the offices of the Hawaii governor and of Steve McGarrett (Lord), who heads the four-man special unit of the state police.

Of course series don't sell on scenery alone, as CBS discovered with its ambitious, ill-fated "Cimarron Strip" of last season.

As with most dramatic series, "Hawaii Five-O" will stand or fall on the quality of its scripts and characters. Lord claimed that executive producer Leonard Freeman is policing the scripts with expert care — "he even ordered and paid for three scripts and then threw them out because they weren't good enough." That is rare in television.

LORD HIMSELF may prove to be the key factor in the survival of "Hawaii Five-O," since the action is focused on him most of the time. He realizes the responsibility and is ready for it.

"I waited five years to go back into a TV series," remarked Lord, who starred for one season in the commendable "Stoney Burke" show about rodeo life. "I had plenty of chances to do another one. MGM offered me 'The Man From UNCLE' before Robert Vaughn got into it; I also turned down 'Shenandoah,' which Robert Horton did, and 'The Outsider,' which Darren McGavin is appearing in now.

"When CBS sent me the script of 'Hawaii Five-O,' I called them back as soon as I had read it and said, 'Let's go!'"

THE FIRST venture was a two-hour version which was filmed late last year for $800,000. It will be presented Sept. 20 in the CBS "Friday Night at the Movies" spot. Then on the following Thursday night at 8, the hour-long series will begin.

JACK LORD
'Stoney Burke' is back

Starring in a series made entirely in this island paradise sounds like a dream assignment, right? Forget it.

"Last week I worked 83 hours," Lord reported. "The only thing that saves me is the Screen Actors Guild ruling that you must have a 12-hour rest period before being called back to work.

"I live like a monk. But that doesn't bother me at all. I came here to work, and I think the results are going to be worth it."

Network Signs Young Comic To Contract

Flip Wilson, one of the brighter new comedians, has signed a long-term exclusive development contract with the NBC network.

Plans call for a special starring Wilson that, hopefully, will lead to a series. He's been a guest numerous times on existing variety shows.

THE NEW SEASON

A Comeback For Situation Comedy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Situation comedy, out of style and out of favor with network television program-makers for the past few seasons, is making a comeback next season.

There are seven new series of the genre on the schedules of the three networks. And a lucky swing of the programming cycle returns that at a time when fierce physical action and gunplay is, if not taboo, at least radically modified.

Television series are usually under construction for one or two years before the public gets its first look at a show, so most of these were on the drawing boards long before the public and the networks began worrying about shoot 'em ups and their suspected effects on tender or disturbed minds.

ON THE September docket are the CBS "Doris Day Show," the popular film star's first excursion into television. She plays a former band singer, a widow with two children, adjusting to rural life.

There is also NBC's "Julia," with Diahann Carroll playing a widowed registered nurse with child.

Other non-violent comedies include CBS's "Blondie," based on a comic strip; ABC's "Ugliest Girl in Town"; NBC's Fantasy, "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir"; CBS's "The Good Guys," and ABC's hour-long "Here Come the Brides," a period piece set in the Northwest lumberjack country.

SECOND MOST popular category for new shows is action, mostly police or private eye action.

The five shows include NBC's "The Outsider," in the mood of those old Raymond Chandler private eye books; ABC's "Mod Squad" and CBS's "Hawaii Five," both working the police beat; NBC's "Adam 12," which will handle a pair of squad car cops in the manner of "Dragnet" and NBC's major effort, the 90-minute "Name of the Game."

Two new variety shows will be added to the growing list — NBC's "Beautiful Phyllis Diller Show" and the off-beat "That's Life" on ABC which will attempt a weekly book musical built around a cast of regular performers playing continuing characters.

DORIS DAY
A television debut

THERE WILL also be two new Westerns, CBS's "Lancer," and ABC's "Outcasts."

ABC will replace a science fiction series, "Voyage to the Bottom of the Sea" with another, "The Land of Giants," the only new entry in that category. And it will also add one semi-game program, "The Don Rickles Show," in which the emphasis is on comedy rather than on upsmanship.

ABC also has the sole anthology series of the season, "Journey to the Unknown," with different plot and performers weekly.

THE EXPERT ANALYSIS for CBS-TV coverage of National Football League professional games this fall will include these two new additions. At left is Lenny Moore, retired after 12 years as a backfield star with the Baltimore Colts. And at right, Paul Christman, former star quarterback who has been a sport commentator for a rival network for the last 10 years.
